SUSSEX RECORD SOCIETY.

REPORT FOR THE YEAR 1909.

IN presenting their Annual Report the Council has to record with great regret the death of the Chairman, the Rev. Canon Cooper, whose sympathetic interest in the Society was manifested from its beginning. As so many Members of the Society are also Members of the Sussex Archæological Society, the Council feel that they need here add nothing to the appreciative notice of Canon Cooper given in Vol. LII. of the Archæological Society's Collections.

In the early part of the year 1909 MR. DUNKIN's Volume, containing the Marriage Licences of the Archdeaconry of Chichester from 1575 to 1730, was issued to the Members of the Society as an Extra Volume, according to the announcement previously made—being numbered as Volume IX. of the series.

Volume X., the regular Volume for 1909, by MR. HUDSON, has also been issued. It was to have been the Sussex Subsidy Roll for 1332. The Editor, however, finding that Roll alone hardly sufficient for a Volume, obtained the consent of the Council to add the two other early Rolls for 1296 and 1327.

Each of these two Volumes contains more than 400 pages, or nearly twice the amount of material which the ordinary funds of the Society enable the Council to provide for an annual Volume. The increased cost of their issue has been covered by generous donations from individual Members. The Council cannot rely upon the continuance of such donations, and once more urge upon all the supporters of the Society's work to enlarge their resources by procuring additional subscribers.

Volume XI., for 1910, will be Part II. of Bishop Robert Rede's Register, by the REV. PREBENDARY DEEDES, and Volume XII., for 1911, will probably consist of a further addition to the Chichester Marriage Licences, including those in the Peculiar Courts and Deaneries, to be edited by MR. DUNKIN.

In place of the Rev. Canon Cooper, MR. W. C. RENSHAW, LL.M., K.C., has been appointed Chairman of the Council.

The Members of the Council offer themselves for re-election.

THE CONTENTS GIVEN IN SUMMARY.

PRELIMINARY NOTE.

WE continue our summary of the contents of this Register on fol. lxiiij of the original, which bears the following title, in three lines at the top of the page, written in bold "Gothic" letters:—

"Registrum venerabilis patris domini Roberti Rede dei gracia Cicestrensis Episcopi quod incepit quinto die Marcii Anno Domini Millesimo Tricentesimo Nonogesimo (sic) Sexto et sue translacionis anno primo."

[The Register of the venerable Father lord Robert Rede, by the grace of God Bishop of Chichester, which began the 5th day of March in the year of our Lord one thousand three hundred and ninety six, and in the first year of his translation.]

The same plan of scheduling the contents of this portion of the Register has been attempted as in pp. 110—137 of Praty's Register.

For a Society dependent upon a limited number of subscribing members the verbatim publication of these Registers would be impossible. The labour of scheduling is considerable, but it is hoped that readers and students will find the result satisfactory.

Rede's Registrars, however, have not pursued so careful a method as Praty's. Included here among the Admissions and Collations to vacant Benefices are found not only Ordinations, which we have relegated to later pages of our book and placed together, but records of various other matters, such as grants of indulgence and manumission, licenses of non-residence, Commissions, Benedictions and the like, which are included in the midst of the schedule wherever they occur. Here and there blank spaces have been left for the insertion of records or documents, which were not ready to the Registrar's hand, and these lacunæ, unfortunately for us, were never filled up. Such blank spaces amount to about four and a half pages, and include one ordination.

In order that the course of the Episcopal Acts in this part of the Register should not be interrupted too much, the details of the Monastic Confirmations, etc., from which nothing at all essential has been omitted, are placed before the Institutions. A few remarks on these may now be made. In view of the very serious and lengthy disputes which had gone on between Bishop Hilary of Chichester and Walter, Abbot of Battle, in the reigns of Stephen and Henry II.,* respecting the immunity which this Abbey claimed by its charter of foundation from Episcopal supervision and interference, the periodical arrangement for Non-Episcopal Visitation is noteworthy, and the election of the Abbot who was to succeed John Lydbury in 1404, with the part which the Bishop was asked to take by reason of the composition† made between the Abbey and his predecessors, is of more than usual interest, especially as it was an election under the uncommon process of "compromise."‡

Compromise in another sense will be noticed in the case of the Priory of Hastings, where besides the retiring Prior, John Hassok, there were only three Canons, all either unwilling or unfitted to undertake the vacant charge. They seem to have applied under this difficulty to the energetic Prior of Michelham, John Leem, who was able to recommend a Canon of his own house, and to persuade the small elective body at Hastings to make over pro ea vice their rights to the Bishop, promising to abide by his decision. For eleven years Weston presided over the Hastings Priory, after which he was received back at Michelham, and no doubt ended his days there. Some of these smaller houses almost died of inanition more than a century before their final dissolution came. There was a similar state of things at De Calceto in 1439, where the two Canons of the house co-opted the Prior of Southwyke so that one of them might be elected. This election was declared void on account of irregularity, and the elect was finally collated as Prior by Bishop Praty. In this case the Hastings Convent acted more wisely, and saved a fiasco.

* Concerning this dispute see Hook's Lives of the Archbishops, ii, p. 372, and Stephens' South Saxon See, pp. 50—57.

† The text of this "composition" is contained in Liber E, fo. 199-200, and there is another page on which ambiguities which had arisen on the "composition" are dealt with. It was drawn up in 1235 between Bishop Ralph II., and Ralph, Abbot of Battle, and the Convent. As the conclusion of a controversy, which in the reign of Henry II. had reached almost historical proportions, it is an important document, and we hope to give the original Latin with an English summary in the Appendix.

they did not steer clear of irregularities, these were not so serious but that the Bishop's Commissaries were able to confirm the election. The process, though faulty, is rather more elaborate than usual, containing a copy of the written consent of the Sub-prior to his election. Mr. Adam Symond of Chichester, their notary-public, was no doubt held responsible for such irregularities as were discovered. Several particulars about him—not entirely to his credit—may be seen above at pp. 112, 118, 121, 123.

In the vacancy at De Calceto recorded here there was no attempt at an election. The right of appointing a Prior, therefore, fell into the Bishop's hands, and having accepted Prior Charney's resignation he at once collated a Canon of Tortington of the same Order to the charge of the temporals and spirituals in this small Augustinian house. There is no record of Prior Hormere taking the usual oaths. Probably he was not present at the time.

The office of the Bishop of the Diocese in the case of Abbeyes of the Premonstratensian Order did not go beyond conferring his benediction, having first satisfied himself that the person applying to him had been canonically elected and confirmed. The certificate of the English head of this and other privileged Orders was held sufficient, and no oath of obedience could be demanded.

[Confirmation of the Election of the Prior of Schulbrede.]

The points of this election are as follow :—

Vacancy by reason of the resignation of William Harethorn, the last Prior. Election of Bro. John Coldell, Sub-prior, as his successor. Report hereof received by the Bishop in the Chapel of his Manor of Duryngewyk Dec. 6th, 1404. The address of the Chapter of the Priory sets forth that as both Cathedral and Conventual establishments are wont to suffer in long vacancies, which, according to the Canons, ought not to continue beyond three months lest the ravenous wolf seize the flock deprived of their shepherd's care, the Church of the Priory of St. Mary, the Holy Cross, and St. Eustace of Schulbrede being vacant by the cession or resignation of Bro. Wm. Harethorn, the same having been tendered to the Bishop and admitted by him, they sought and obtained leave from the most serene and noble lord, Lord Henry, Earl of Northumberland,* their Patron, to choose another fit man as their Prior, and afterwards, on November 18th, the following met in Chapter: John Coldell, Sub-prior, William Harethorn, James Clanefeld, Henry Hamond, and Richard Mydhurst, Priests, and Thomas Morys in minor Orders expressly professed in the Order of St. Benedict of the said Priory, some being then absent, namely, * Henry de Perci, Lord of Petworth, the father of Hotspur and Earl Marshal, was created Earl of Northumberland by Richard II. in 1377.

Robert Newtymbre and John Dene, who had been absent without leave from the Priory for many years past, and were supposed to have gone beyond the seas, and after diligent discussion fixed on Thursday the 19th of November, with prolongation beyond this date if needed, for the election of a Prior according to the approved custom of their Church. This Thursday having arrived, the aforesaid persons, Robert Newtymbre and John Dene excepted, met, and Mass of the Holy Spirit having been solemnly celebrated at the High Altar of the Church, they betook themselves to their Chapter-house, and being assembled in Chapter, the word of God having been set forth and the Holy Spirit's aid invoked by the chanting of the hymn Veni Creator Spiritus, all secular and lay persons being excluded except Masters Thomas Southam, Rector of the Church of Dunsfold, Wynton Diocese, Adam Symound, Notary Public, Thomas March and William Hook, literates, whom they had named, taken, and chosen to witness to the truth in the whole process of this election only, and not as having any voice therein, certain monitions and protestations were made by brother James Clanefeld on behalf of all and each of those present, in words which are given at length, requiring the departure of all suspended, excommunicated, and interdicted persons, and freedom to proceed without interruption in the election. The letters of licence from the patron were then exhibited, and the constitution of a General Chapter Quia propter read.* Suddenly, as though by inspiration,† the other brethren, with unanimous consent, named Bro. John Coldell as their Prior. [The usual formulary as to his fitness for the office follows.] They forthwith carried down and placed the elect at the Great Altar of their Church, ringing the bells and chanting Te Deum. The announcement of the election was then made to the Clergy and people who were present in the Church by the aforesaid brother James Clanefeld in his own and the others' names in the vulgar tongue, and the said brother, having requested Bro. John Coldell in the name of all to give his consent to his election, he reported that he had received it in these words: "In the name of God, Amen. I, brother John Coldell, Sub-prior of the Conventual Church or Priory of Schulbrede of the Order of St. Augustine, of Chichester Diocese, a priest expressly professed in the aforesaid order in the same Priory, canonically elected Prior of the aforesaid Priory by my brethren fellow-canonics of the same Priory, and being earnestly and often requested on the part of the same my brethren to consent to the same my election thus made, at length overcome by the insistence of my said brethren, unwilling further to resist the Divine will, by the Grace of Almighty God, trusting in the merits and prayers of St. Mary the Virgin, the Holy Cross, and St. Eustace our Patrons, at this twelfth hour of this 19th day of the month of November in the year of our Lord 1404, consent in these writings as well fearfully as devoutly to the election made of myself as Prior of the same Priory."

The fraternity desire the Bishop to confirm the election, the particulars of which are formally prepared by Mr. Adam Symond, Notary Public, who states that he was present through the whole proceedings, and confirmed by the affixing of their common seal. The above-mentioned persons were present as witnesses, and the process is dated in the year 1404, Thirteenth Indiction, first year of Pope Innocent VIIth, on November 18th and 19th. The Bishop hereupon decreed that the competitor, if there were one, and the opponents should be cited to appear before him or his Commissaries on the day and at the place named below, and a mandate was addressed to the Dean of Mydhurst and Wm. Wylde, Chaplain of Farnhurst severally. The Chaplain certified to this effect: that he had received the mandate, quoted at length, requiring any other competitor or opponents to appear before him or Masters Robert Neel, Canon of Chichester, and John Pedewell, or either of them, on December 11th next in the Parish Church of Wysebergh to make objections or opposition, if they had any. Dated at Duryngwyke Manor "under the Seal of our Commissariate Dec. 8th, 1404." "By the authority of which mandate I William the mandatarie aforesaid went publicly to the said Priory, but I found no competitors or opponents there personally, but I made a proclamation, denunciation, and citation in the aforesaid Priory, where the said election had been celebrated, that if any wished to oppose, etc., he should appear on the said day at the place stated." . . . "In testimony whereof the official seal of the Deanery of Mydhurst is impressed on this certificate." On which day, the Commissaries aforesaid sitting on the tribunal, there appeared before them the said elect personally, and the Convent of the same Priory by James Clanefeld, their proctor. The tenor of the procuratorial letter follows. It shews that James Clanefeld and Henry Hamond were constituted proctors on the usual conditions, and empowered to do all things necessary for the confirmation by the Bishop of the Election. Given in the Chapter-house, November 1st, 1404.

The competitor and opponents in general being called at the door of the Church of Wysebergh and none appearing, the Proctor of the Convent said that he would call witnesses to the truth of the things contained in the decree of election, and produced three "informators," namely, brother Henry Hamond, Canon of the said Priory, Robert Hamond and Thomas March, literates, who were admitted, sworn, and examined, and their depositions were to be published with the consent of the aforesaid proctor. Nothing further being proposed in the aforesaid business, and the confirmation of the said election being asked by the proctor, the Commissaries, after supplying by slight alterations some defects which they had found, confirmed the said election in the form of words which follow:—

“In the name of God, Amen. The business of the election made in the Priory of Schulbrede of Brother John Coldell, elected as Prior of the same Priory, having been examined, the decree of the election and some letters and instruments having been exhibited, and witnesses in the same business having been produced, admitted, sworn, and examined, and their attestations and other proofs and evidences in the aforesaid business having been seen, inspected, and with due diligence recounted, and the whole process had in the said election having been examined, and all things which should be weighed in that respect having been weighed, we have found that all the Canons of the said Priory who had a right and voice in the said election gave their votes concordantly and unanimously for the aforesaid John the Elect, although some things respecting the solemnity of the said election, which is said to have been made by inspiration, requisite by right, through the simplicity (ignorance) of the said electors appear to have been omitted or done hurriedly and are not proved to have been observed, We, Robert Neel and John Pedewell, the specially deputed Commissaries in the same business of the reverend Father and Lord in Christ Lord Robert by the grace of God, Bishop of Chichester, supplying as far as in us lies the defects of solemnity omitted in the said election by the power committed to us in this regard, having invoked the name of Christ, confirm the aforesaid election by the authority of the reverend Father aforesaid committed to us in this regard, plenarily committing the rule and administration of the said Priory as well in spirituals as in temporals to the same Brother John.”

[Resignation of the Priory of Hastyng.]

It is to be remembered that on the 16th of August 1402 in the Chapel of the lord's Manor at Bysschoppeston one Brother John Hassok, Prior of the Priory of Hastyng in the Dio. of Chichester, appearing personally before the lord, made, read, and interposed then and there a certain resignation reduced to writing under this form: “In the name of God, Amen. I, John Hassok, Prior of the Priory of Hastyng of the Order of St Augustine, Chichester Diocese, feeling that, on account of certain infirmities which I have hitherto suffered, now suffer, and fear that in the future I shall probably suffer more heavily,

I am not sufficient or able for the rule of the said Priory. For this cause and other lawful and reasonable causes moving me in this respect, wishing to be exonerated from the cure and rule of the said Priory, resign the aforesaid Priory with all its rights and appurtenances into your sacred hands, Reverend Father and Lord in Christ, Lord Robert, Bishop of Chichester, purely, spontaneously, simply, and absolutely, and I retire from the same as far as concerns its Spirituals and Temporals, and I leave them both in fact and word, and I renounce in these writings every right to the same Priory which accrues or shall accrue to me in any manner, protesting openly and publicly in these writings before you, Reverend Father, that I never wish to return to the said Priory nor to abjure nor in any way for the future to repent of my said resignation or renunciation, but to adhere effectually to the same resignation." This resignation having been made as aforesaid the lord accepted the same, being present then and there brother John Leem, Prior of the Priory of Mychelham,* Masters Robert Neel, Canon of Chichester, John Gylys, Rector of Hurstperpound, and J. Blounham.

Collacio ejusdem vigore cujusdam compromissi facti in dominum pro hac vice.

[Collation of the same on the strength of a certain compromise made for the lord for this time.]

And subsequently on September 2nd in the year aforesaid the Canons of the said Priory, all and each, being publicly and capitularly assembled in the Chapter-house of the same Priory, and having been fully informed and certified of the resignation and the acceptance of the resignation aforesaid, compromised on the Reverend . . . Robert . . . Bishop of Chichester, Ordinary of the place, and for them and for each of them severally and in common withdrew from the right of election for this time. And they introduced a certain protestation set forth in writing and caused it to be read by brother John Borne, Canon of the said Priory as their mouthpiece (organum vocis eorum), in the following form of words:—

"In the name of God, Amen. We, John Borne, John Erlyngton, and John Batayll, Canons of the Priory of Hastyng, Chichester Diocese, being capitularly assembled . . . having been credibly informed, find truly that our Priory of Hastyng is vacant by the free resignation of Brother John Hassok, the last Prior of the same. the choice therefore of any person of our habit, profession, and order whom the Reverend Father . . . Robert . . . Bishop of Chichester, Diocesan of the place, shall think fit to choose, we consent and compromise unanimously, undertaking severally and in common to receive that person so elected or nominated to be admitted and appointed canonically as Prior of the said Priory. And we retire from the right of election for this turn, promising that we will humbly submit and show due obedience to that person whom the said Reverend Father for this turn shall think good to appoint as Prior of us and the said Priory. Not wishing, however, that by this compromise and renunciation made to the Reverend Father we should prejudice the right of ourselves or our successors in any future elections. Present then and there John Leem, Prior of the Priory of Mychelham, Master John Gylys, Rector of Hurstperpound, and myself John Blounham." Whereupon by the authority and strength of the aforesaid compromise the Lord in the Chapel of his Manor of Bysschoppyston on the 4th day of September in the year abovesaid conferred the same Priory on a certain Brother Richard Weston, Canon of the Priory of Mychelham, and instituted him Prior canonically in the same under the following form of words: We, Robert by divine permission Bishop of Chichester with the express consent of the Religious man Sir John Leem, Prior of the Priory of Mychelham of the Order of S<sup>t</sup> Augustine of our Diocese, appoint by the right of compromise duly and lawfully made to us for this turn thee, brother Richard Weston,* Canon of the Priory of Mychelham, expressly professed of the Order of S<sup>t</sup> Augustine there and being in Priest's Orders, as Prior of the Priory of Hastyng of the same Order of our Diocese, vacant by the free resignation of Brother John Hassok, last Prior of the same, and accepted by us, and we institute thee as Prior canonically in the same, and to thee, of whose morals, conversation, and circumspect industry we have been fully informed by men worthy of credit in whom we place undoubted trust, your fellow-canons of the same Priory, we commit rule and administration in spirituals and temporals, saving in all things Episcopal rights and the dignity of our Church of Chichester. Not wishing that by this our appointment . . . any prejudice should arise in future vacancies of the Priory against the Canons of the Priory to whom the right of choosing their Prior otherwise belongs.

And subsequently on the same day the said brother Richard received the lord's benediction thus: Who moreover swore and promised that he would faithfully in his times to come pay to the lord and his successors the annual pension of one thousand of red herrings* to be paid at the Feast of St. Andrew or within a fortnight after, which pension, indeed, all and each of the predecessors of the Lord Bishop of Chichester have received, had, and been accustomed to receive every year. Present there the Prior of Mychelham aforesaid, Master John Gylys, Sirs Walter Batayll and William Malpas, Chaplains. And the lord commissioned Master John Gylys to instal the same Brother Richard. [Resignation of the Priory de Calceto and the collation of the same.]

Also on the 22nd day of September 1402, in the Chapel of the Manor of Bysschopyston there appeared before the lord Brother John Charney, Prior of the Priory de Calceto of the Order of St. Augustine, and read his form of resignation.

[It is on the same lines as the last, the reasons alleged being his inability and insufficiency in spirituals and temporals. The Bishop accepted his resignation in the presence of Master John Gylys, Sirs William Malpas, Vicar of Clympyng, and Eustace,† Vicar of Levenstre, and J. Blounham.]

And subsequently in his Manor of Aumberle on the 24th day of the aforesaid month the lord conferred the Priory in the usual form on Bro. John Hormere, Canon of Tortynghon, in Priest's Orders.

Requisicio fata pro visitacione Monasterii de Bello.

[Request made for the Visitation of the Monastery of Battle.]

On September 20, 1404, in the Parish Church of Horsham a certain Brother Thomas Beche, Monk of Battle, of the Order of St. Benedict, specially deputed as their Proctor to apply to the Bishop for a Visitation to be made by him in the said Monastery, requested the Bishop to this effect.

The form of proxy is given, and contains their petition that the Bishop will appoint some discreet monk of the said Diocese, Order,

These were preserved in salt or dried, and supplied the table on "fish-days" when fresh fish failed. It was a not uncommon form of rent for seaside dwellers, and seems to have been due to the Bishops of Chichester from the Hastings Priory [not to be confused with the Royal College] from time immemorial. Du Cange's Glossarium mentions a similar tribute in France on St. Andrew's day or within the Octave. See further in the Appendix.

and habit, not suspected by them, to be associated with the discreet man Sir Stephen, Prior of Sele, according to the form of the ordination or composition hitherto used and observed between the Church of Chichester and the Monastery of Battle aforesaid. And the Proctor protests for himself and the Monastery that they will strictly observe this composition or ordination in all its articles, so far as it touches or in future will touch them, and will so avoid the penalty of the contravening party, namely, of fifty marks, contained therein. After this request had been tendered by Brother Thomas Beche, the Bishop made a formal protest. [Margin.—Protestacio Domini.] In this he states that this composition had been made “dudum” [i.e., in 1235] between the Bishop of Chichester and the Abbot and Convent “de Bello” on the Visitation of the Monastery every three years “de triennio in triennium,” and continues, “before you, a person of credit, and the witnesses here present we protest openly and publicly . . . that we are ready and willing to fulfil and observe all and singular the things which can concern the said Visitation being duly made according to the whole force, form, and effect of the above-mentioned composition. To this effect we name the religious, discreet, and honourable man Brother John Chaworth, Prior of the Priory of Boxgrave . . . and we assign and depute him by these presents to this Visitation, . . . with another monk of the same our Diocese and of the same order and habit to be chosen by the aforesaid Abbot and Convent for carrying out this Visitation in due form at convenient time and place. Present : Master Robert Neel, Official of Chichester, Masters Geoffrey Salle, John Depyng, and myself John Blounham.”

The tenor of the proctorial licence follows : [Margin.—Tenor procuratorii.] To the Venerable Father, etc., John, by divine permission Abbot of the Monastery of St. Martin de Bello and the Convent of the same place, [pay] the obedience and reverence due to such a Father. To request you concerning our Visitation to be made, and also that you will nominate and associate in the Visitation itself in our name some monk of your Diocese of the Order of St. Benedict and of our Monastic habit to do all and singular the things which are required in this respect according to the force, form, and effect of a composition hitherto had and accustomed between the Church of Chichester and the Church of Battle, we ordain, make, and constitute our beloved in Christ [fo. 82 v.] brother Thomas Beche, our fellow-monk, our lawful proctor, ready to hold as ratified and pleasing whatever our aforesaid proctor in the premisses and those things which concern them may think should be done in our name. In testimony whereof our seals are attached to the presents. Given at Battle in our Chapter-house, May 2nd, 1404.

Whereas lately by Brother William Chylham, Monk, Proctor of the Religious men, the Abbot and Convent of Battle, we were requested in his proctorial title for the same Religious men to appoint some discreet man, etc., with whom by the said religious man brother William, the proctor aforesaid, brother Stephen of Sele aforesaid, etc., has been nominated as associate according to the form of the ordination, etc., a protestation having been publicly and openly made by us, etc., Thee, a Religious man, discreet and honest, Sir John Chaworth, Prior of the Priory of Boxgrave, etc., we nominate and by these presents assign and depute to carry out in our place this Visitation in due form as well in the head as in the members, with Sir Stephen, Prior of Sele of our Diocese, of their orders and habit, nominated and chosen by the said Brother William, the proctor, to be associated with thee. Also to do, etc., everything which shall be necessary or suitable for the same Visitation. And what you do in the premisses and what by diligent enquiry in this Visitation you find, etc., you are to certify to us as quickly as you can by your letters, etc., signed with an authentic seal. [fo. 83.] Confirmacio electionis facte de fratre Willelmo Merssh in Abbatem Monasterii de Bello Cicestrensis Diocesis.

[Confirmation of the election made of Brother William Merssh as Abbot of the Monastery of Battle, Chichester Diocese.]

It is to be remembered that the Monastery of St Martin of Battle, Chichester Diocese, being vacant through the death of Bro. John Lydbury, the last Abbot of the same, and the election having taken place there of brother William Merssh as the future Abbot of the said Monastery, and the decree of the election made there having been handed to the Reverend father, etc., ordinary of the place, in the Chapel of his manor of Duryngewyk on the 23rd day of the month of January in the year of our Lord underwritten, with competent information given, the same Reverend Father decreed that the co-elect and opponents, if any there be, should be cited to appear before him or his Commissaries in his said Chapel on the 29th day of January to propose in form of law, etc., and moreover the said Reverend father assigned to the Proctor of the Prior and Convent of the same Monastery the same day to introduce the matter of this election in form, and a mandate was addressed in that regard, etc., to the Dean of Batayll and the Chaplain of the Parish of Catysfeld severally to certify, etc. Which Parochial Chaplain formally certified. [Certificate given [fo. 83 v.], citing the mandate at length, dated Duryngewyk January 23, 1404. These points may be noted. The Monastery's

Proctor was Bro. William Beket. The Chaplain found that there was no co-elect or opponents of the election. He procured the seal of the Dean of Battle to be affixed to his report, and the Dean confirms this statement. Given at Battle [apud Bellum] Jan. 24th the year abovesaid.] This certificate having been read before the lord sitting judicially in his said Chapel, there appeared then and there the said elect personally and the Convent of the same Monastery by Bro. Thomas Beche their proctor, etc. [The procuratorial letter was exhibited. It is quoted in full.] It states that Bros. William Beket and Thomas Beche are appointed by them jointly and severally as proctors, "giving to each of them general power and a special mandate for us and in our name to the most excellent prince . . . Henry by the grace of God the illustrious King of England and France and Lord of Ireland of intimating with due reverence the election made of Brother William Merersch as Abbot and of presenting the elect and of asking and obtaining the royal consent thereto." They were further to present and exhibit the election and its decree to the Bishop, "according to the exigency of the composition made in this regard of old between the Reverend Father himself and his predecessors and us and our Monastery and to ask and obtain from him or from someone else who has or will have sufficient power the prosecution of the election up to its final expedition, according to the force, form, and effect of the composition to which we refer and wish to be considered as though here inserted, also of seeking and obtaining the installation of the elect so confirmed according to ancient custom, etc., and of doing all else necessary or expedient." They promise that they will accept as their own all their proctors' acts. Dated in our Monastery of Battle Jan. 13 in the 6th year of the reign of Hen. IV. and the year of our Lord 1404. This proctorial appointment having been read, the proctor exhibited the election of Brother William Merersch under the common seal of the said Monastery. The tenor of this election follows:—

[fo. 84.] It is addressed to the Bishop, or his Vicar-general in Spirituals, or to his deputed Commissary or Commissaries by his humble and devoted Brother John Kynerton, Prior, and the Convent of the Monastery of St Martin of Battle. It states that John Lydbury, the last Abbot, died on the last day of November 1404, and that they being deprived of the consolation of a shepherd and unwilling so to continue, decided that their regular Church ought not to remain vacant more than three months. Therefore the Church being thus vacant and the body of John, the last Abbot, being committed to the grave, leave having been then asked and obtained from the most excellent prince and lord in Christ, Henry, King, etc., their patron, for choosing another Abbot, we, brother John Kynerton, Prior, and the Convent of the Monastery aforesaid then present, entering the Chapter-house and constituting there a Chapter thought good to appoint the twelfth day of January then next following for celebrating the election of the future Abbot of the said Monastery with continuation and prorogation of the days next following, and that the rest of the fellow brethren and monks of the said Monastery absent should be cited to proceed and to see to the process in the said business of the future Abbot's election to be canonically celebrated according to the custom of the Monastery, etc. And subsequently when the fellow monks and brethren of the Monastery who were absent all and each who ought to be present at the Election had been cited for the same term and place, on the eleventh day of the said month of January we, the Prior and Convent of the Monastery aforesaid, together with the Proctors of those absent, who are underwritten, of abundant caution, having entered the Chapter-house aforesaid and constituting a Convent or Chapter, prefixed and assigned for ourselves peremptorily for the election of the future Abbot the twelfth day of the month of January aforesaid with continuation, etc., by the common will and assent of all present and of the proctors of those absent. Which day, namely the twelfth day of January aforesaid, arriving, Mass having been first celebrated at the High (Magnum) Altar of the Conventual Church of the said Monastery, the said 12th day of the month of January and in the Chapter-house appointed as is aforesaid, all and singular the monks of the said Monastery assembling who ought, would, and could conveniently be present at this election, namely, Brothers John Kynarton, Prior of the Monastery, William Bilham, William Cauntyrbury, William Brunston, Thomas Hay, Thomas Whitstaple, William Denwey, John Burgrove, William Chilham, Hugh Peny, John Effington, John Westgate, William Regete, Thomas Dover, Edmund Wyngham, Thomas Stapilhurst, Richard Leycestre, William Mersch [sic], John London, John Underdon, Thomas Housell, John Dalynghton, Thomas Beche, Thomas Hamond, Thomas Rompne, Richard Bexell, John Hope, John Merle, Simon Chilingdene, John Flour, and Henry Chichestre personally and in their proper persons, and brothers Thomas Haukurst, John Esse, Simon Bowynge, Thomas Russell, and John Waller, monks of the said Monastery of the Cell of St Nicholas, Exeter, by the aforesaid William Bilham, their proctor, appointed by letter under the common seal of the Cell of Exeter; also Brothers John Echyngden, Prior, and George Westram, monk of the said Monastery's Cell of Brecon by the said Edmund Wyngham, appointed by letter under the common seal of the Cell of Brecon at the said day and place to proceed in the election, etc., having been lawfully cited as we the Prior and Convent had been credibly informed, all and several the monks abovesaid appearing, expressly professed of the Order of St Benedict, and being, as is well known, in Holy Orders, since there are no others who ought to take part in the election of the future Abbot of the said Monastery [fo. 84 v.], besides us the 38 monks of the said Monastery of custom or of right, afterwards the Word of God having been set forth by the honourable man Brother Thomas Chillenden, Prior of Christ Church, Canterbury, Doctor of Decrees, in the said Chapter-house, having taken for his theme "Choose the better man,"* and the grace of the Holy Spirit having been specially invoked by the chanting of the angelic hymn, "Veni Creator Spiritus," and the letters of licence of our Lord the King of England having been read, granted to us the Prior, etc., for choosing a new Abbot of the Monastery aforesaid. Subsequently there was read publicly in common the general constitution, Quia propter, as is customary, and it was publicly explained to us particularly and in its several divisions by the said Prior of Christ Church, Canterbury, which things being so done and had, Brother John Dalvington in our place and name, and by the mandate of me, the Prior, and of all and singular of the Convent aforesaid specially granted to him to this end in writing, made a warning and protest, and standing there publicly read this monition and protestation written on a schedule of paper which he held in his hand under the form of words which follows. [This is the usual warning to all excommunicated, interdicted, and suspended persons, etc., to leave the Chapter-house and not to interfere with the freedom of election.] Which things having been so done we treated diligently on and about the form of election by which we should wish to proceed to the election of our future Abbot, and after various lawful and honest discussions, which here for the sake of brevity it is expedient to pass over in silence, at length it pleased us, the Prior, and all and singular the monks aforesaid, being specially and severally questioned according to the exigence of law, no one saying anything to the contrary, to proceed to the election of the future Abbot by the form of compromise. And then having held a discussion concerning the persons to be chosen and the power to be granted to the same, We, the Prior and monks abovesaid, concordantly and unanimously agreed on three monks from among us, namely, brothers William Bilham, William Cauntyrbury, and William Denwey aforesaid as compromissaries,† and we gave power to the same that in our place and the place of all of us they should name and choose six other monks of the said Monastery of Battle to be added to them as compromissaries,* and we unanimously agreed that after these three compromissaries had come to a common agreement among themselves, concerning the six persons to be named and chosen to be added to themselves as compromissaries, one of these three for himself and his colleagues and me, the Prior, and all the monks aforesaid . . . . should name these six persons to take up with the said three power from us as compromissaries of . . . . choosing a fit person as our Abbot and Pastor, and the said Brothers William Bilham, William Cauntyrbury, and William Denwey, accepting this power handed to them, after some discussion had together, asserted that they had unanimously agreed on these six compromissaries [fo. 85] to be added to them . . . . namely me, Brother John Kynarton, Prior, Thomas Whitstaple, John Burgrove, William Beket, Thomas Beche, and John Offington, monks abovesaid; and the said Brother William Denwey by the mandate of the said Brothers Will. Bilham and Will. Cauntyrbury his colleagues aforesaid, given him then and there viva voce, named these six monks to be joined with and taken to the same three as compromissaries, and he elected them in writing under the form of words which follows: In the name of God, Amen. I William Denwey, by the mandate and will of Brothers William Bilham and William Cauntyrbury for myself and them and the whole Convent of the said Monastery of Battle name and choose before you the persons under-written, namely, John Kynarton, Prior, etc. (as above), to be joined with us as compromissaries and to take up with us the power, etc., for electing a fit person as future Abbot of the aforesaid Monastery, under a certain form to be granted to us by the same Convent. And all the other aforesaid Monks of Battle together with us approving of this nomination and election have given to us nine compromissaries thus named and elected power on the whole said twelfth day of January to last only till the setting of the sun on the same day that we nine should choose or at least the greater part of us should choose from ourselves a fit person from the bosom† of the said Monastery of Battle as Abbot of the Monastery and Pastor, and should make provision for the same Monastery of the same. Yet so that after we all or the greater part of us nine had agreed on a fit person, one of us so agreeing by the mandate of the other consenting compromissaries for himself and them and the whole Chapter should elect him on whom consent had been thus given as Abbot and Pastor of the said Monastery before the whole Convent in common, and should provide the same Monastery with him, and should solemnly publish the said election to the Clergy and people. They provided moreover that they would receive him as our and the said Monastery's Abbot, whom we nine compromissaries or the greater part of us, as is aforesaid, thought should be chosen. We moreover, the compromissaries aforesaid, all and each accepted expressly and voluntarily admitted this power given, handed and granted to us. And after accepting this power given us in the presence of the whole Convent aforesaid, we, the aforesaid compromissaries, swore, and each one of us touching the Holy Gospels of God swore that we the compromissaries would diligently discuss about the persons of the said Monastery, and after this discussion had among us that we would direct our votes concerning the person to be chosen as Abbot of the said Monastery on him whom, according to God and a pure and just conscience, we should think the best and most useful in temporals and spirituals for the rule and government of the Monastery of St. Martin aforesaid. And subsequently we, all the compromissaries aforesaid, retired into the Conventual Church of the Monastery of Battle at the High Altar of the same and there diligently and secretly treated together among ourselves concerning the person to be chosen, and after various discussions held from one side and another (hinc et inde) we all, the compromissaries aforesaid, at the High Altar aforesaid in the presence of a Notary Public and of witnesses underwritten, directed our votes on the Religious man, Brother William Merersch, monk of the said Monastery of Battle, as Abbot of the said Monastery of St. Martin of Battle, to be elected on behalf of ourselves and of the whole Convent aforesaid in common. And we willed and expressly consented that one of us, namely, Brother Thomas Beche aforesaid, should elect the aforesaid Brother William Merersch as Abbot of the Monastery in common, and should solemnly publish the same to the Clergy and people according to the exigency of law, in the place of all us, the compromissaries, and of the whole Convent aforesaid, and to do this we nine compromissaries aforesaid, each for all and all for each, committed to the same Brother Thomas Beche our rights and also power according to all the force, form and effect of the power attributed to us, as is stated above, by the Convent aforesaid. And subsequently about the ninth hour of this 12th day of January we nine compromissaries, returning to the said Chapter-house, in the presence of the whole Convent there capitularly assembled, and making a Chapter, asserted and declared [fo. 85 v.] that we have been and are agreed (fuisse et esse concordés) on and about the person to be chosen as Abbot of the said Monastery according to the power delivered to us, and immediately the aforesaid Thomas Beche, one of our compromissaries aforesaid having in this regard, as is stated above, full and sufficient power, in the right of himself and of all us, the compromissaries aforesaid, and of the whole Convent . . . by the consent and assent of the whole Convent aforesaid then expressly given before the setting of the sun on the said twelfth day and before the said compromissaries had turned their attention to extraneous actions, according to the force, form and effect of the compromise above stated in the presence of the whole Convent aforesaid, capitularly assembled together in the said Chapter-house, elected the aforesaid Brother William Merssch as Abbot of the said Monastery of St Martin of Battle publicly in common, and made provision for the same Monastery of the same man under the tenor of words which follow : In the name of God, Amen. Whereas after the death of Brother John of good memory, the last Abbot of the Monastery of Battle of the Order of St. Benedict of Chichester Diocese, who closed his last day on the last day of November 1404, and the said body of this Abbot having been delivered for Ecclesiastical burial in the said Monastery, the Monastery itself being utterly deprived of the rule of an Abbot, it pleased us all and each, etc. [What follows is a repetition of the previously stated resolution to elect an Abbot, decision as to compromise, and selection of compromissaries.] And after various discussions had among us in this regard concerning various persons, at length by the favour of Divine grace we unanimously and harmoniously cast our votes on the Religious man, Brother William Merssch, a man especially prudent and discreet, deservedly commendable in his knowledge of letters, his life and character, expressly professed of the regular Order of St Benedict in the said Monastery and in Priests' Orders and of lawful age in that respect, free and born in lawful matrimony, very highly circumspect in spirituals and temporals, able and knowing how to defend and protect the rights of the Monastery aforesaid, against whom there is no objection from canonical rules, so that he ought not to be chosen as Abbot of the said Monastery, and provision be made for the same in his person. Therefore I, Brother Thomas Beche, one of the compromissaries aforesaid, by express mandate, etc., elect in common the same Brother William Merssch as Abbot of the Monastery aforesaid . . . within the term prefixed or even limited in this regard in the compromise.* Which election being thus made, as is stated before, and publicly proclaimed, we the Prior and Convent aforesaid all and each began to sing devoutly Te Deum laudamus, and carried (portavimus) according to custom our elect to the High Altar of the conventual Church aforesaid. And forthwith the said Brother

Thomas Beche by the mandate of his said compromissaries and by the power given him in this behalf in his own place and ours and that of the whole convent beforesaid published and set out the said election openly and publicly according to the canonical institutes to the clergy and people solemnly in the vulgar tongue in our Conventual Church beforesaid.

Subsequently I, brother John Kynerton, Prior, together with others my brethren beforesaid, led the beforenamed brother William Meresch, the elect, into a certain collateral chamber next to the Abbot's Chamber of the same Monastery, which collateral Chamber the elect of the said Monastery were wont to inhabit for fitting and accustomed times [fo. 86] up to their confirmation inclusively, and left him there. But when the next day arrived, namely, the 13th day of the said month of January, we, the Prior and Convent of the Monastery of St Martin of Battle, being capitularly assembled in our Chapter-house aforesaid, [instructed] by our unanimous consent and assent our beloved fellow-monks and brethren William Beket and Thomas Beche oftsaid then and there present with us in the Chapter and expressly accepting our mandate, to present for us and in our name to the beforesaid Brother William Meresch our elect the election of himself thus made, and to request his consent to the same suppliantly and with instance as often as it should seem expedient to them or to either of them, that he would be willing to consent to this his election thus made and to give his assent to the same . . . [the two have equal authority to act singly or separately] promising that we would hold as valid and pleasing whatever the same our proctors or either of them should do or cause to be done in our name. And subsequently on the said thirteenth day of the said month of January about the eighth hour [8 a.m.] of the same day before the ninth hour the said Brothers William and Thomas our Proctors . . . went to the said Brother William Meresch . . . being personally in the aforesaid Chamber and exhibited to the elect this election made of himself and put into writing and there requested the elect himself suppliantly and several times with instance that he would give his assent to this election made of him. But Brother William Meresch the elect replied to the same Proctors, as they afterwards related to us who appointed them, that he wished to deliberate more fully, and so retiring from them into another chamber apart, he remained there for a time with certain his advisers. And at length about the hour of High Mass on the same day he returned to the same Proctors, and so the same Proctors aforesaid in our name as before requested the aforesaid Brother William in the Chamber aforesaid a second time and with instance as before. And at length the same Brother William the elect being requested as is abovesaid, unwilling as he asserted, to resist the will of God, yielded to our prayers and consented to the aforesaid election made of him in this manner: "I, Brother William Merssch, Monk of the Monastery of Battle of the regular Order of St Benedict, expressly professed in the same Monastery and being in Priest's Orders, elected Abbot of the same Monastery, being unwilling to resist the Divine will, at the instant request of the Prior and convent of the said Monastery and of the Proctors of the same, to the honour of the Holy Trinity and of St Martin our Patron and of all the Saints of God, consent to this election made of me, and I give my consent in these writings." Wherefore we supplicate your reverend Paternity as well devoutly as humbly or your Vicar-general in spirituals or your commissary or commissaries that you will kindly deign to confirm the same election so solemnly and canonically and concordantly celebrated, and favourably to impart to the same our elect what is further necessary in this regard, that with God's help he may be able to preside over us and to be profitable to our Monastery aforesaid, and we may be able under his rule to fight healthfully before God. And that it may be known clearly by you that we are all agreed and unanimous in all the premisses in the petition aforesaid as a testimony of the things aforesaid we have fortified the present decree of the election which we transmit to you by attaching to it our common seal. Given in our Chapter-house on the 13th day of the month of January in the year of our Lord 1404.

This election having been handed in (porrecta) the Bishop caused it to be called publicly at the door of his Chapel aforesaid and proclaimed that if there were any other opponents or anyone co-elected who wished to make any objection to the said elect or to his election they should then appear, and none appearing the said Proctor exhibited the Royal Letters Patent in these words: Henry, by the grace of God King of England and France and Lord of Ireland, to the Venerable Father in Christ R., by the same grace Bishop of Chichester, health. Know ye that we have given our royal assent and favour to the election lately made in the Conventual Church of St. Martin, Battle, of your Diocese, of our beloved brother in Christ William Merssch, Monk of the same house, as Abbot of that place. And this we signify to you by the tenor of these presents, so that you may execute what is yours in this regard. In testimony whereof we have caused these our Letters Patent [fo. 86 v.] to be made. Witness myself at Westminster on the 16th day of January in the sixth year of our reign. Which having been read the said Proctor put forth a certain petition reduced to writing under the tenor of words which follow: In the name of God, Amen. I, Brother Thomas Beche . . . Proctor, and in the procuratorial name of the Prior and Convent . . . from you

Reverend Father . . . . in the business of the election of brother William Merersch . . . . beg that the election of the aforesaid brother William made in this respect and exhibited before you, to which I refer myself, may be decreed, pronounced and declared by you to have been and to be canonical, and it is asked that it may be confirmed as stated in the decree of the election made of the said brother William in this regard, and that what further belongs to right and reason may be done therein. And I ask that the proceedings in this regard may be done ordinarily and plainly without noise or form of judicial proceedings according to the new Constitutions published in this regard. And further he said that he wished to use for his further petition the matters contained in the aforesaid election. And three Instructors having been produced by the same Proctor, namely, brother William Beket, Monk of the said Monastery, Master Thomas Rooke, Rector of the Parish Church of Lymnysfeld, and William Cordele, literate, and they having been admitted, sworn and examined and their depositions by the consent of the said Proctor published and nothing further having been proposed in the business of the election aforesaid, but the consummation of this election having been asked by the said Proctor, and some discussion having taken place about the same, the lord confirmed the same election under the form of words which follows: In the name of God, Amen. We, Robert, by Divine permission Bishop of Chichester, having examined the process of the election made in the Monastery of St Martin, Battle, of our Diocese (being deprived of the solace of a pastor by the death of Brother John Ledbury, last Abbot of the same), of Brother William Merersch, Monk of the same Monastery, elected Abbot of the place by the form of compromise, and having seen and with due diligence examined certain instruments, letters, attestations, and other lawful documents and proofs had produced and exhibited before us in the said business, and having weighed all things that should be weighed in a business of this kind, because we find the election of the said Brother William Merersch made in the Monastery aforesaid to have been and to be celebrated duly and canonically, also that all things and each thing by right and custom necessary or requisite to the form or matter of the election itself have been and are in all things diligently observed, the name of Christ having been first invoked, we by our Pontifical authority confirm the election aforesaid as having been made of a fit person, against whom we find nothing in the Canonical institutes to prevent him from holding the state of an Abbot: fully committing the care, rule and administration, so far as it belongs to us, as well in spirituals as in temporals, to the same brother William, decreeing that the gift of Benediction wont to be conferred upon Abbots is to be solemnly conferred on the same elect having been confirmed and ought to be really conferred on him. And subsequently on the same day and in the same place the lord solemnly celebrating Mass of the Trinity bestowed the gift of Benediction on the same person being elect and confirmed, as is customary, who tendered the obedience required in this regard under this form of words: I, William, elected Abbot of the Church of St. Martin, profess to the Holy Church of Chichester and to Thee, father Robert, Bishop of the Church of Chichester, and to thy successors canonically entering canonical subjection, reverence and obedience, and I subscribe this with my own hand. And he made a cross as shewn below +.

[Certificate sent to the King concerning and on the Confirmation of the Election.]

To the most excellent Prince and Lord in Christ, Lord Henry . . . . Robert by Divine permission Bishop of Chichester in Him who gives to the mighty to judge justly and to Kings to reign, we make known to your Royal Highness by these presents, justice so urging, that the election of Brother William Merssch, etc. (to which election indeed you had given your Royal assent, as by your Royal letters-patent is quite clear to us) as having been duly and canonically celebrated should be confirmed. May it therefore please your Royal Highness further to execute in this respect what you know to belong to your Royal Highness. May the Highest direct and preserve your Royal Serenity in honor, length of days, and safety. Given in our Manor of Duryngwyk 30th January 1404, and in the ninth year of our translation.

[The Title of the Elect and Confirmed.]

Be it known to all men by these presents that we, Robert . . . . having examined the business of the election . . . . of Brother Robert Merssch . . . . canonically celebrated as of a fit person . . . . on the 29th day of January . . . . confirmed it . . . . and . . . . solemnly bestowed on the elect the gift of benediction . . . . committing to the same Brother William the administration of the said Monastery as well in spirituals as in temporals by the testimony of these presents which we cause to be fortified with our seal. Given, etc.

[A letter addressed to the Prior and Convent for giving obedience.]

Robert, etc., to his beloved sons the Prior and Convent of St Martin . . . health, grace, and benediction. Since we have confirmed by our Pontifical authority the election made . . . of Bro. William Merssch . . . and have committed to him the care and administration of the said Monastery, and have conferred on him . . . the gift of Benediction, we enjoin and command you that you obey the aforesaid Brother William for the future in his lawful and canonical commands and behave to him humbly and devoutly. Given as above.

[A mandate addressed to the Prior for Induction and Installation.]

Robert, etc., to his beloved son the Prior of the Monastery, etc. Since we [as above] we command you that you induct the aforesaid William into the corporal possession of the said Monastery of Battle and of the rights and appurtenances of the same, assigning to the same the stall in the Choir of the Conventual Church of the same of old usual and accustomed for the Abbot of the same place, doing and executing other things which of custom or from the composition entered into between the Bishop of Chichester and the Monastery of Battle are in any way required. And what you have done in the premisses when the said business has been carried out in fitting time give us fuller information with the tenor of these presents. Dated as above.

[fo. 87 v.] [No heading.]

To all sons of Holy Mother Church who shall inspect the present letters, Robert, by Divine permission Bishop of Chichester, health in the Saviour of all men. We wish it to be brought to the notice of you all by these presents, that since it was and is evidently clear by the letters of the religious man Brother John, Abbot of Wellebek, Father of this Order in England, addressed to us in this matter, that to the Church or Monastery of St. John the Baptist, Dereford, of the Premonstratensian Order in our Diocese, lately vacant and deprived of the solace of a Pastor, provision has been duly made of the Religious man Brother John Ulynggh, Canon of the same Order, canonically elected and confirmed as Abbot of the same place, according to the statutes and privileges of that Order; we therefore being willing to perform what things further pertain to our office about the Benediction of the Abbot elected and confirmed on the same Brother John Ulynggh thus elected and confirmed as Abbot of the said Monastery of Dereford on the first day of the month of January in the year of our Lord below-written in the Chapel of our Manor of Duryngwyk by our Pontifical authority duly bestowed the gift of Benediction wont to be bestowed on Abbots, having observed and used all things which are requisite and accustomed according to the form and custom of the Church for the solemnity of this office, and we blessed him solemnly then and there. In testimony whereof our seal is attached to these presents. Given on the day and at the place aforesaid in the year of our Lord 1405 and in the tenth year of our Translation.

ADMISSIONS, INSTITUTIONS, COLLATIONS, AND EXCHANGES, WITH MEMORANDA ON COMMISSIONS, LICENCES, MANUMISSIONS, PENSIONS, DILAPIDATIONS, INDULGENCES, ETC.

The most noteworthy feature in this portion of the Register, dealing mainly with the devolution of Rectories and Vicarages, is the inordinate number of exchanges, very largely between two Incumbents within the Diocese, but including every other Diocese in the South of England and many in the Midlands and the North, one of the parties always, of course, being within the Diocese.

Specimens of these in Latin and English translation have already been given in Part I., pp. 4—10. A rough calculation shows that during the seventeen years of Rede's Episcopate there were about 230 exchanges to about 220 vacancies through resignation and other causes not stated, probably more of these on account of resignation than of death. Sixty-seven vacancies are definitely assigned to death. During the seven years of Praty's Episcopate, 1438—1445, there were only 42 exchanges, proving that the system had been discouraged.

In 1391 Archbishop Courtenay had addressed to his suffragans a very strongly worded letter (see Wilkins' Concilia, iii, p. 215) condemning "Choppe-churches," by which term are intended those secular priests who drove a trade by exchange of benefices. The guilty parties were to be found chiefly in London. That his protest did not put a stop to such criminous traffic is clear enough, for in 1585 Archbishop Sandys condemns "simoniacal choppers and changers, buyers and sellers." But an investigation, which at least in intention was strict, took place before proposed exchanges at this time were ratified. It is hardly, however, to be supposed that the Bishops, largely occupied as they were in secular affairs, often in high matters of statecraft, "fully discussed the causes" moving the many applicants to an intended exchange of their benefices, and the officials probably considered their fees more than the good of the parishes. Proctors were often employed when distances were long, and in the case of Rectors not required to reside, sometimes only in minor Orders, their parishioners saw them seldom or never. Vicars indeed were sworn to perpetual residence on their charges in obedience to the injunctions of the oft-cited Papal legates Otho and Ottobon.

The compilation of these scheduled tables has been rather laborious by reason of the complexity of many of the exchange processes, and the compiler has been aided towards the supply of points often omitted (as e.g., the patrons of benefices in other dioceses) by having been allowed, through the kind introduction of Canon Madge, Librarian of the Winchester Cathedral Library, to the Winchester Diocesan Registrar, Mr. Wooldridge, to examine the grand Episcopal Registers of Bishop William of Wykeham and Cardinal Beaufort. Finding ready to his hand the summary of the former Register made by Mr. T. F. Kirby, he was spared much turning over of the leaves of the original, but he attempted this in the case of Beaufort's, and has thus been able to add a few items towards the end of our present period, where unhappily Rede's Registrar seems to have been seriously negligent in his duties. During the later years the entries are by no means consecutive chronologically, and it is difficult sometimes to tell what year you are in. Rede died in June 1415, but the latest admissions recorded here are in April 1414. As this Register Book was all but full, it is quite possible that another may have been begun which has not come down to us. We may thankfully accept, however, this the first substantial record of Chichester Episcopal Acts preserved to us. In Bishop Praty's time, a quarter of a century later, he was able to refer to his predecessor's Registers up to 1300, but he expressly tells Henry VI. that none were forthcoming earlier than that date.* We are fortunate again in possessing copies of early charters and records which throw light upon things dealt with here, for instance Rede's second Visitation mentions incidentally the Priest-Vicar's "Mansion," then in course of erection. We can quote in illustration a contemporary account of the solemn laying of the four foundation corner-stones, one of them by the very Canon Paxton, who was charged later, on most certain evidence,† of appropriating material which was to be used in the construction then proceeding, or perhaps for a short time in abeyance.

It will not be necessary to enlarge here on the very miscellaneous subordinate contents of this portion of the Register. Several items have been already printed and translated in the first section, others will appear in the Appendix in cases when they are too lengthy for insertion in the text. One of the most interesting is the case of the Anchorite at Aldingbourne, but this has been fully treated in a paper on the Order of Anchorites in the Sussex Archaeological Collections, xii., pp. 129—139, to which our readers may be referred.

There are several instances of literæ quæstorie being granted for a year. These were practically begging letters soliciting the alms of the faithful for works of piety and benevolence, and were justly suspected as being frequently instruments of imposture. The Council of Tortosa in Spain in 1429 laid down that no Quæstores were to be allowed without the licence of the Bishop of any Diocese in which they solicited alms, and the Synod of Sens in 1524 laid down stringent rules against the reception of such persons by Curates or Vicars under the pretext of any letters other than those of the Bishop or of his Vicars in authentic form.

The admissions of women to religious vows, the licences to Clergy to absent themselves for study in nearer or more remote parts, the precautions by the Bishop against instituting unless in absolute certainty of a vacancy, the appropriation of certain benefices to Religious Houses, the provision of pensions for retiring Clergy, the manumission of deserving serfs, and other like records open up many points of interest to those students who wish to understand England as it was in the days of Chaucer and Lydgate.

SCHEDULE OF ORDINATIONS.

Of the Ordinations held by Bishop Robert Rede the largest number were in the Chapel of his Manor at Amberley, namely eleven, four of which were private, not general; three each were held in the Cathedral, Horsham Parish Church, and Storrington Parish Church, two each in Chichester Palace Chapel, Durringwick Manor Chapel (besides one private Ordination there), one each in Cackham Manor Chapel and Aldingbourne Manor Chapel, Aldingbourne Parish Church, and in the Parish Churches of Bishopstone, Billingshurst, Alfriston and Henfield, and in the Collegiate Church of Arundel. The last recorded in the Register was an Ordination in the Parish Church of All Saints', Lewes, at which the Bishop of Caithness took Rede's place.

As there is no need of furnishing translations in this portion of the Register, the Latin lists have been transcribed verbatim. The regular times for ordaining then, as now, were the four Ember seasons, called "quatuor tempora" in the Register, but Rede held Ordinations most frequently in March and September, less frequently in December, while Trinity is left out, but Easter Eve usually comes in addition to the Lent Ember week (this day and the previous Saturday are allowed in the Pontifical), so that two Ordinations in Lent were the rule. Saturday was the regular day, and apparently invariable except in the case of private Ordinations. It will be remembered that in ancient days Easter Eve was the great occasion for the administering of Holy Baptism and Confirmation, so that the Bishop's presence was necessary so long as that rule prevailed, and an Ordination might well form part of the day's solemnities. Confirmations were not important enough to find any place in an Episcopal Register; indeed the Bishop, according to the Pontifical, might with due notice administer Confirmation at any time. As to the Ordinands, they are always entered from the lowest Orders upwards. The Pontifical directs that they are to take their places in order as their names are called by the Notary. We have a few cases here of first tonsure, which might be, and often was, given to boys of seven years old and upwards. It was not necessarily an Episcopal act, nor did it imply any necessity on the part of the recipient to proceed to Holy Orders unless a benefice should be conferred on him. There are many instances in this Register of persons obtaining leave of absence from their Rectories for the purpose of study, on the condition that the Divine offices were not neglected. John Blounham, the Bishop's Registrar, who had received a competent legal education, and was a Notary Public, must have received first tonsure to qualify him as a practitioner in an Ecclesiastical Court, but in September 1407 he comes before us as an Ecclesiastic, being ordained Acolyte* as Rector of Abingworth, Hants. In the following Lent he is raised to the Subdiaconate as Rector of Kingston Deverill, Wilts, by letters dimissory from the Bishop of Sarum. It is probable that he took the other steps up to the Priesthood at either Winchester or Salisbury, as he does not appear again in these lists. There is a uniformity of method throughout. The regulars come first, the seculars after (though towards the end of the Register we sometimes find the reverse). The Benedictines generally come first among the Regulars—"Monachi," then the Augustinian Canons (Canonici), then Cluniacs and Cistercians, and the Mendicant Orders after them, Dominicans (Prædicatores) and Franciscans (Minoritæ or Ordo Minorum).

The Secular Clergy follow. They are generally distinguished by their Diocese, and as letters dimissory were often given to all Orders, these were exhibited with the "title" under which they claimed. If it were to a benefice, the applicant often stated that he was satisfied therewith, which would seem to mean that he had no intention of resigning it on the plea that he could not live on its revenues. Secular Clergy, who were ordained to the title of Abbots or Priors of Religious Houses, were intended to serve the Vicarages of those benefices which were in the hands of Monasteries. Such Vicarages were too often "starvings," and the Bishops occasionally intervened to secure better terms for the Vicars by arranging an Ordinatio, to which the consent of the Monastery was required.

If there had been time and opportunity to consult the contemporary Registers of Salisbury, Lincoln, London, Canterbury, Rochester, etc., as well as those of Winchester, these lists of persons ordained, who were connected with the Diocese, might have been made more complete, and gaps, especially as to Patrons, might have been supplied. Considering the difficulties of locomotion, especially in the winter months, when the country lanes must have been almost impassable, people did move about very constantly, but the Clergy were glad no doubt to present themselves at Ordinations which might be nearer to them than those of their own Diocesans, and the general system of Letters Dimissory favoured them in this respect. We need not, however, wonder at the strict rule which prevailed at Visitations for the exhibition of Letters of Orders and Titles to Benefices.

* The office of Acolyte, or more strictly Acolyth, was the fourth and highest of the Minor Orders, that of Subdeacon the lowest of the higher grade. In the thirteenth or fourteenth century it became customary to confer all the four Minor Orders at once, and here no doubt the Ordination of "Acolite" or "Accolite" included the offices of Ostiarius, Lector, and Exorcista.

BISHOP ROBERT REDE'S THIRD VISITATION.

A little before the end of that part of the Register which deals with Institutions, Collations, etc., is found the Bishop's Visitation of June 1409. It is written upon the folios numbered 160, 163, 162, and 164, the sequence of matter being placed in this order by a mistake of the binder (161 contains Institutions). The contumacious spirit which we noticed in the Bishop's second Visitation (supra, p. 98 seq.) has happily passed away. It may be that time and reflection had convinced the Dean and Chapter that the Bishop was not exceeding his rights in trying to reform flagrant abuses, or perhaps Dean Haseley, holding the reins more firmly than his generous but impulsive predecessor Maydenhithe, had persuaded his colleagues that in this way they could best persuade the Bishop to regard with favour their own list of reformanda. From whatever cause, the tone of the proceedings on the part of those undergoing Visitation leaves little to be desired. Only three of the Prebendaries incurred penalties through wilful and repeated absence, and the complaints against the formerly notorious Mr. John Paxton were very slight.

While the faults detected in the Visitation are neither important nor particularly interesting, the Articles proposed by the Dean and Chapter for the Bishop's consideration deserve careful attention. His petitioners urge, with expressions of profound respect, that several matters under his own control need reform, and beg him to apply such remedies as in his wisdom he may think good. We have, unfortunately, but slight means of judging whether the petitioners were able to carry their points. John Haseley was succeeded in 1410 as Dean by Henry Lovel, of whom the Register tells us nothing, though Richard Talbot, who became Dean in 1413, is just mentioned.

[Here follows another Visitation of the Reverend Father, held in the said Church of Chichester on the 17th day of June A.D. 1409, and in the 13th year of his translation.]

The Bishop wishing, as he stated, to visit his Church of Chichester and the several members of the same, as he was bound by the obligation of his pastoral office, addressed his letters patent to this effect to the discreet man Master John Haseley, Dean of Chichester. [Letters to the same effect as above (p. 99). Dated Cakham Manor, May 16, 1409, and in the 13th year of our translation.]

Sequitur alia litera pro visitacione Cleri et populi Civitatis.

[Here follows another letter for the visitation of the Clergy and people of the City.]

Addressed to Dean Haseley or his locum tenens or Commissary, directing him to cite or cause to be cited all and singular the Rectors, Vicars, and Chaplains, etc., in the City of the Dean's jurisdiction, and either six or four parishioners, according to the size of the Parishes, to appear before the Bishop or his Commissaries at the Altar of the Sub-dean, the clergy to exhibit and shew their letters of orders and to leave copies of them with the Registrar, Clergy and laity to submit themselves to the Visitation, and nothing to be attempted to the prejudice of the same. Dated as above.

Which 17th day of June appointed for the Visitation of the Cathedral Church arriving, the Venerable father with his attendants (cum familia sua) between the first and tenth* hour of the same day, having first heard private Mass in the Chapel of his Palace, went to his Cathedral Church, and as he was approaching the West door of the same Church Mag. John Haseley, Dean, D<sup>ns</sup> William Reede, Precentor, Mag. Philip [Galeys], Treasurer, and the Residentiary Canons and others then present, also the Vicars and Ministers of the same Church whose names are written down below, honourably received him with the marshalling (apparatu) of a [fo. 160 v.] solemn assembly. And a solemn incensing having been made for the same Reverend father by the aforesaid Dean and Precentor, the same Reverend father, the procession aforesaid preceding him, and the Vicars and other Ministers sonorously chanting the Responsory Summe Trinitati, was honourably conducted to the High Altar of the same Church, and the Collect of the Holy Trinity having been said over him prostrate before the same Altar by the Dean, the same Venerable father taking with him the Venerable men the Dean, Precentor, and Chapter aforesaid, together with his own clerks, went to the Chapter-house of the same Church, and taking the theme Visitacio tua custodivit spiritum meum,† he, in the presence of all then there, made a noteworthy discourse (egregiam collacionem). Which discourse being ended and all outsiders (extraneis) having been put out of the Chapter-house, the certificate of the Dean was produced and publicly read, the tenor of which is as follows: [He acknowledges the receipt of the Bishop's mandate of visitation, and in obedience thereto had summoned those persons who were subject to visitation, and performed what more was required.]

Which mandate and schedule having been read through, the same Reverend father recited and read the reason of his coming and a certain monition reduced to writing in these words: "Very dear [brethren] (carissimi), the reason of our coming is to visit this our Church of Chichester and the Dean and Chapter and the several members of the same, as we are compelled by the duty of our pastoral office. Wherefore we warn you, the Dean and the several persons of the Chapter, and also all the Vicars and Ministers of this our Church accustomed to be visited for the first, second, and third time, and in virtue of obedience and under the penalty of excommunication, that you tell us those things which pertain to the reformation of manners and the correction of souls truly without evasion (fixione), and we will correct the same as pertains to our pastoral office as before God and man."

[fo. clxiii.] Which being done, the same Reverend father caused the aforesaid Dean, Canons, and all other the Ministers of the same Church written on the aforesaid schedule to be summoned singly and examined secretly and separately, the aforesaid Dean and all the others personally appearing about defects found in the same Church which notoriously needed correction and reformation; which Dean and Residentiaries being examined said that the Dean in their name, before the retirement of the lord, would present a schedule in which would be contained certain petitions and articles fully concerning the said defects; which articles were afterwards exhibited by the Dean, the tenors whereof are described below. But other non-residentary Canons appearing, and for lack of sufficient time not exhibiting and not being examined, the lord suspended his Visitation as it was till the second hour after lunch (post prandium) [i.e., 2 p.m.]; which second hour arriving the lord caused to be examined the non-resident Canons, who personally appeared. Of these some appeared lawfully by their proctors before the said Reverend lord, and underwent the Visitation of the said father. But as for others who in no wise appeared nor exhibited, in order to prove clearly their wilful intent (ad eorum maliciam convincendam) the lord decreed that they should be waited for till the morrow, namely, Master Andrew Yonge, Prebendary of Middelton, Master John Bremor, Prebendary of Sydelesham, and Master Robert Bradgar, to which day he held over his Visitation.

The morrow, namely the 18th day of June, arriving, the same Reverend father caused to be examined in the Chapter-house by his clerks all and singular the Vicars above-written of his said Church, about the afore-said defects of the Church, which things all and each that were detected and discovered in the said enquiry, as well by the several persons of the Residentiaries as of the Vicars, are described below. And because the above-said Canons, namely, Master Andrew Yonge, Master John Bremore, and Master Robert Bradegar, being publicly summoned, long waited for, in no wise appeared, Master Philip Galeys, Treasurer, Commissary of the said Reverend father, in this regard specially deputed, the tenor of whose Commission is given below, pronounced the said Masters Andrew, John, and Robert contumacious, and decreed that they should be cited anew, in pain of contumacy, to appear before the said Reverend father in the said Chapter-house on the Friday next before the feast of St<sup>t</sup> Margaret* next ensuing, namely, on the 19th day of July, to which day he suspended and prorogued the Visitation of the Reverend father, to exhibit the titles of their Canonries and prebends which they hold in the same Church, or to shew reasonable cause, if they have any, why the fruits of their Canonries and prebends ought not to be sequestrated; and other Vicars who hold Chantries within the said Church to exhibit their foundations under the same penalty; and the same mandate was addressed to the Dean or his locum tenens to make execution of this decree, the tenor of which is as follows: Robert, etc., to his beloved son the Dean, etc., health, grace, and benediction. [It recites fully the Bishop's intention of holding a Visitation, and how he had given effect to it; that several Canons were notoriously absent, and that some Vicars holding Chantries had not exhibited; he had, therefore, prorogued the Visitation to the day above-stated for the appearance of these persons who were to be cited by the Dean according to a schedule attached, that they might then either exhibit or shew reasonable cause for their refusal, a certificate thereon by letters [fo. 163 v.] patent to be sent to the Bishop. Dated in our Palace at Chichester, June 20, 1409.]

Which 19th day of July arriving, the abovesaid Master Philip, Commissary, first read his Commission. [It was addressed to himself, as Treasurer, to John Collys, Bachelor in Decrees, and Geoffrey Salle, Sequestrator General in the Archdeaconry of Chichester. It closely resembles that given in the Visitation of 1402 [fo. xxx. v., p. 110 supra], and states that the Bishop had personally begun his Visitation, but was prevented by various and arduous business from continuing it further. He therefore empowers his Commissaries to receive the certificates of any persons concerning this Visitation, also to visit the Monasteries, Priories, Chapters, Convents, Collegiate Churches, dignities, parishes, offices, Churches, and benefices, also other holy (pia) places whatsoever, as well in their heads as in their members, and the whole Clergy and people of the City and Diocese, to punish canonically those cited and the contumacies and offences of any of those cited and rebellious, and to enquire concerning spiritual crimes, defects, and excesses whatsoever; to correct, reform, and punish crimes, defects, and excesses found or detected in the aforesaid Visitation; to examine and fully discuss the title and titles of all beneficed persons and the letters of orders of all persons in whatever orders they may be; also the foundations, creations, and ordinances of whatsoever ecclesiastical benefices, portions, tithes, pensions, or spiritual appointments (prestacionum) within the Church and City of Chichester; and of all benefices, Chantries, Chaplaincies, Hospitals, Vicarages, and the unions, annexions, incorporations, and assecutions of those that are within the City and Diocese, and the letters and instruments concerning all and singular the aforesaid, and canonically to pronounce and declare concerning the same; and to approve the wills of any persons deceased in the said City and Diocese, and to direct the administrations of the goods of the same deceased persons, as well as of others who have died intestate, and to hear reckonings and accounts concerning these administrations, and to make final acquittances; and to continue and prorogue the business of the said Visitation in part or in whole as shall seem most convenient. These powers to continue good until the Bishop shall see fit to revoke them.] "Given under our seal at Boxgrave, the 20th of June A.D. 1409, and in the 13th year of our Translation."

Master Philip Galeys also read the Certificate of the Dean. He cites the Bishop's mandate, and states that by virtue of it he had summoned the said Canons, Vicars, and persons whose names were contained in the schedule attached, namely, the Canons in their stalls according to the custom of the Church, and the Vicars and persons in the Chapter-house, to appear before the Bishop or his Commissaries at the date specified to undergo Visitation, and thus he had in all respects performed what the mandate required. "Given at Chichester under the seal of the office of my Commissary, July 18th, in the year above-said." The names attached to the present schedule are described above. He caused all the abovesaid Canons and Vicars to be summoned separately, and there appeared specifically the abovesaid Dean as proctor for Master John Bremore, and exhibited his proctorial letter for the same and his Collation and his Installation or Induction as Canon and Prebendary and his letters of orders, and the said Vicars all and each holding Chantries exhibited the foundations of these Chantries, and the aforesaid Master Andrew Yonge and Master Robert Bradegar being publicly summoned and long waited for, and in no wise appearing or excusing themselves, the Commissary pronounced them contumacious, and decreed that in pain of their contumacy the fruits of their Canonries and Prebends should be sequestrated, and that they should be [fo. 164] cited for the Monday next after the feast of St. Matthew the Apostle, namely, on the 23rd day of September, to appear in the said Chapter-house, to say, allege, and propose if they have any reason why they should not be removed from their benefices aforesaid, and further to do and receive what justice shall require.

[Things found and detected in the same Visitation by examination of the separate persons.]

First it is found that the number of the Vicars is not full, because there is not a sufficient supply of Chaplains, and therefore two occupy two stalls who are not in Holy Orders.

Also it is found that the Vicars at their own motion, and without reasonable cause, very often leave the Choir before the completion of the Divine Office and against the injunction made in the last Visitation.

Also it is found that there are conversations (confabulationes) in Choir at the time of the Divine Office as well by the Canons as by the Vicars, notwithstanding the injunction made in the last Visitation.

Also that some Canons leave their stalls assigned ("debitis" lege "debita") of old to their own Canonries and Prebends and sit in those of others, and principally Master John Paxton.

Also it is found that the said Master John Paxton is remiss and negligent in not restoring divers goods of the Church alienated by him, which otherwise he should have restored within a certain time appointed and limited to him in another Visitation of the lord.*

Also it is found that some Residents when they are absent receive the daily distributions, anniversaries, and money for wine, which is expressly against the Statute of the Church that these are only due to those present.

Also that by Master John Maydenhith, Dean, lately deceased, there was made a new ordinance or statute concerning only the Residentiaries, the authority of the Lord Bishop by no means intervening.

Also it is found that the above-said Master John Paxton has access through the Chapel of St Faith into his own lodging, contrary to the decency (honestatem) of the Church and the warnings given him in another Visitation.*

[fo. 162 v.] Also it is found that the Vicars do not celebrate at competent days and hours in the Cathedral Church as they ought.

Also it is found that the distributions accustomed to be paid of old to the Vicars celebrating mass at dawn (in aurora) are withdrawn by the Residentiaries, namely fourteen pence every week.

Also it is found that the Comminar was accustomed once each quarter to make a view [inspection] (facere visum),† and now it is withdrawn.

Also it is found that Divine Service is not said in the Choir as it ought to be, for the reason that the books are very defective and discordant.

Thomas Marsch, Vicar in the Choir, is too roving (nimis vagabundus) and a common hunter, having and keeping very many hunting dogs.

Articuli propositi per Decanum et Capitulum in Visitacione Reverendi patris de quibus supra fit mencio.

† This seems to mean that he submitted his accounts for inspection.

[Articles proposed by the Dean and Chapter in the Visitation of the Reverend father, of which mention is made above.]

First your humble and devoted the Dean and Chapter of your Church of Chichester supplicate your reverend paternity that, for the reverence of God and the state of your Church aforesaid, you will be willing to have a gracious eye to the underwritten articles, and to apply your helpful hands :—

(1) First that your said Church has for a long time borne heavy and intolerable expenses, as well in your Court as in other Courts, for the (?) ferry (passagio) of Sefford. Be pleased to apply a suitable remedy in the premises, so that they may not be amerced in your Court in future times.

(2) Also because the rents and revenues belonging to the Comuna of your said Church decrease day by day, and very many expenses and burdens, all but intolerable (quasi intollerabilia), continually accrue to the Residentiary Canons of your said Church, be pleased to provide a remedy concerning the non-resident Canons, who ask for an equal share each day with the Residents while they bear nothing of the burden of the day, by combining the Statutes of the Church and its custom together* as it is observed in other Cathedral Churches.

(3) Also because when any Canon in your Church with a Prebend (Canonicus prebendatus) dies, the fruits of the last year of him deceasing, according to the Statutes of your said Church and the Apostolical letters granted in this matter, are due to the work of the said Church there and to the Canons residentiary, and very many Canons who immediately succeed to a Prebend so vacant claim and convert these fruits to their own proper uses. Be pleased to grant your authority for a letter concerning a remedy ordered in the premises (cuidam litere de et super remedio in premissis ordinato), and to cause your seal to be affixed to the same, as at other times request had been made to your paternity.

(4) Also because according to the statutes and ordinances of your Church the Comminar of the said Church for the time being in each year shall faithfully reckon and shall pay, as well to the residentiary Canons as to the other Ministers of the said Church, their daily distributions, the Comminar now being complains that there are due to him by your Reeve (propositum) of Busshopeston for the term of the Annunciation of Blessed Mary in the 7th year of King Henry xl<sup>s</sup>, and for the 8th and 9th years of the said King viij li., by the pretext of which debt and non-payment the Comminar is unable to pay the Ministers of your said Church. Wherefore may your Reverend paternity deign to order a remedy on the premises.

(5) Also because the succentors of your Church in their successive times, according to the ancient customs of your Church long used, should receive and have from the lord Bishop of Chichester xl<sup>s</sup> for the support of the Choristers, and consequently (?) the several succentors in their times have really received and had the said xl<sup>s</sup>, and moreover the Receivers (? Receptores, written Rcores) of the Rev. father and lord in Christ of good memory lord William Rede, late Bp. of Chichester, made full restitution to the different succentors who were in the time of the said Rev. father for the same xl<sup>s</sup>. May it please you to make restitution to our succentor for the time being for the aforesaid xl<sup>s</sup> a year withdrawn, as he says, for his whole time, for the honour of God and of your Church aforesaid. And the undertreasurer of your Church should receive and have the same, and that he asks.

(6) Also because the Canons of your Church have been accustomed to have free passage beyond (ultra) the water at Amberle for the tithe of hay there due to them, and now of late (tarde) it is hindered, May it please your Reverend Paternity to restore this as it was of old (in consuetudinem antiquam).

(7) Also because the Rectors and Vicars and other Curates once in the year in Whitsun week visit their Mother Church with banners and processions. May it please you to compel all the Rectors and Vicars and other Curates of your Archdeaconry of Chichester to visit your Cathedral Church in the said week of Whitsuntide, as those in your Archdeaconry of Lewes visit the Church of Lewes because they cannot reach your Cathedral Church.*

(8) Also since there are some Articles of the different Reformanda which cannot be expressed in competent form without great counsel and provident deliberation of those skilled in the law within this hour of your Visitation, may your Reverend paternity deign to decree that all Articles of this kind during the whole time of your Visitation, as often as and when they happen to be exhibited, may be exhibited and admitted now as in the past, and that the sentence of reformation that is due may be applied to the same (dignetur vestra paternitas reverenda Articulos hujusmodi quoscunque durante toto tempore visitationis vestre quociens et quando articulos hujusmodi contigerit exhiberi, nunc

[fo. 166-167 v.] [Priory of St. Pancras, Lewes.]

This important fragment, consisting of two complete folios, is unfortunately defective at both ends, though we have in the part preserved all that is really essential to the understanding of the document. It is, apparently, a portion of the lost Register of Bishop Richard Mitford, Rede's immediate predecessor (1389—95).

It appears that this Bishop had formally visited his Diocese in the year 1391, and that at Lewes exception had been taken, or at least questions raised, as to the claim made by the Prior and Convent to Rectorial rights at Peccham (Patcham), Dychenyng (Ditchling), and Westhodelegh (West Hoathly). A glance at the schedule of Institutions and Inductions above will shew how very large was the Patronage of this Cluniac Priory. Taking sheet H, pp. 305—320, as a sample, we find them presenting to fourteen benefices as against twenty-two of all other religious houses put together. This of course refers only to the Diocese of Chichester, but the Priory had possessions temporal and spiritual also in the Dioceses of Canterbury, London, Lincoln,

* This is an involved sentence, but as it stands the above seems to be its meaning.

† Hennessy spells this name "Horetopp," and gives his date 1478.

‡ Resignation apparently means exchange. Hennessy gives under Aldingbourne, William Wraa (sic) died 1480, and under Egynton, i.e., Ripe, Robert Berecliff resigned 1484.

Norwich, Exeter, Salisbury, Winchester, Ely, and York, amounting in Pope Nicholas' Taxation (1291) to no less a sum than £361 12s. 3d.*

By way of settling the question, which seems to have been raised from time to time, of the Priory's lawful and absolute right to their large ecclesiastical property and patronage, Bishop Mitford appears to have directed them to set forth in full their claims within his Diocese, and to give satisfactory proofs of the same. The fragment now before us is chiefly a recital of their answer to this demand. It was drawn up by their proctor, and seems to have perfectly satisfied the Bishop, as we know from one of the series of Charters copied at the instance of Bishop Sherborne and preserved in our muniments [Liber C., folio lxxxv verso]. Of this last-named document the following is a translation :—

In the name of God, Amen. Lately we, Richard, by Divine permission Bishop of Chichester, personally visiting our Diocese of Chichester, commanded the Religious men the Prior and Convent of the Monastery of St. Pancras of Lewes of the Cluniac order [holding for their proper uses the Parish Churches of Peccham and Dychenyng with the Chapel of Wyvelesfeld of our Chichester Diocese, and more-over alleging (pretendentes) that the Parish Church of Westhodelagh of the same our Diocese has been and is canonically appropriated, united and attached (annexum) to this their Monastery], to set forth, exhibit and shew the special right or titles by means of which they have held the said Churches of Peccham and Dychenyng with the said Chapel and alleged that the said Church of Westhodelagh has been and is appropriated, as is aforesaid, to themselves and their Monastery, and to make full proof of the same on certain days and at a convenient place before us or our Commissaries, and we made them by right of our office to be summoned to trial as to these their Churches. At which day and place the aforesaid Religious men by N. N. their proctor, etc.† The tenor of which is such : Be it clearly known to all, etc.† Appearing before us lawfully they proposed a certain proposition, the tenor whereof is such : In the name of God, Amen. Before you, etc.† The name of * Dugdale's Monasticon, ed. Caley, v., 6. At the Dissolution a very large portion of its possessions was granted to Thomas Cromwell, and the particulars of this grant, copied from the Originalia, 29 Hen. VIII., may be seen in Dugdale, p. 7, and compared with the list given in the process following, now printed for the first time, which however deals with Sussex alone. Dugdale's annotator in Caley's edition has been at the pains to give on pp. 8 and 9 an alphabetical list of the place-names contained in a Register of the Priory's possessions, which is now preserved in the Cottonian Collection of MSS. in the British Museum. See also Dugdale, ut supra, pp. 16—20.

† Only the opening words of the successive clauses are here recited.

Christ having been first invoked, we, sitting on the tribunal, in these writings, definitely weigh, decree, and declare that the aforesaid religious men have sufficiently and to the full proved and established their contention (intencionem) drawn up (deductam) in the said proposition, and that they and their monastery aforesaid have had and have full right and sufficient title in the aforesaid Churches of Peccham and Dychenyng and in the Chapel aforesaid, and to the rights and appurtenances of the same Churches and of the Chapel abovesaid, and that the religious men themselves have held and do hold canonically the same Churches and each of them with the Chapel aforesaid, and that the said Churches of Peccham and Dychenyng and of Westhodlegh and each of them, with the rights and appurtenances abovesaid of the same, have been and are canonically appropriated, united, and attached to the same religious men and to their Monastery, and that the same religious men have possessed and do possess justly the said Churches of Peccham and Dychenyng and each of them with the Chapel aforesaid. And on these points all and each that they are sufficiently secured (munitos). And these religious men and this their Monastery, in the person of the said proctor of the same and the proctor himself, towards the persons of his masters aforesaid, we entirely clear (dimittimus) and absolve by decree from our official inspection (ab officii nostri examine) as sufficiently secured in this regard. Reserving to ourselves and our successors, etc., the power of canonically augmenting, etc., the portions of the Vicars of the same Churches of Peccham, Dychenyng, and Westhodlegh. This sentence was read by us, the Bishop of Chichester, in our Manor of Amberley, the 8th day of the month of July in the year of our Lord 1492, and in the 3rd of our Consecration. In testimony whereof we have caused our seal to be attached hereto. Given in the day of the month, year of our Lord, and place aforesaid.

Proceeding now to the fragment beginning on p. 166 of Rede's Register, the first words are "(procuratoribus) nostris seu eorum alicui videbitur expedire." This is part of the Monastery's commission to their two proctors, and is almost verbatim the same form of commission, mutatis mutandis, as may be seen on p. 143 of Praty's Register (vol. iv., S.R.S.). It ends, In testimony of all which things we have thought good that our common seal which we use for causes* should be affixed to these presents. Given in the Chapter House of our said Monastery on the 22nd day of March in the year of our Lord 1381. What follows is the Bishop's Registrar's statement: Appearing before us lawfully they proposed by their said proctor a certain proposition, reduced to writing, drawn up in legal form for the titles and rights of the Religious in the things aforesaid. The tenor of which proposition is as follows: In the name of God, Amen. * There seems one stroke too few for "adimimus," but I think this must be intended admini. The meaning must be, we deprive our proctors, etc., of all power to tamper with our privileges. I don't think any other word but "adimo" within possibilities could bear that sense.

Mag. Robert Neel, Canon and Preb. of Hanfeld, sufficiently constituted proctors for this purpose, the tenor of their proxy is described, addressed to the Bp. in his manorial Chapel of Aumberle, July 20, 1407. The Chapter first confers full proctorial rights on their two representatives of announcing to Mr. John Hasele his election and obtaining his consent to serve the office. This he promises. Then of taking the necessary steps to present to the Bishop the decree of election and the person elected. Dated in the Chapter-house, Chichester, July 18, 1407. Any co-elects or opponents were to be cited to appear before the Bp. or his Commissary on July 26th in the Parish Ch. of Aumberle, to propose in form of law any objection they might wish to bring against the election. A mandate to this effect was addressed to the Sub-dean of Chichester. On this date the Sub-dean put in a certificate, which quotes at length the Bp.'s mandate [fo. 168 v.] to the usual effect, dated July 20, 1407. He continues that in this case there was no co-elected person nor any opponents to the election, therefore generally in the Ch. of Chichester he cited peremptorily all concerned in the election to appear on the day and in the place specified. To his certificatory letters was attached the Seal of the official of Chichester—"And we the official aforesaid at the special request of the person certifying attached to these presents the Seal of our office," July 25.

[It is not thought necessary to take up space by giving the Latin text in full here. It is almost identical with the process printed in Bishop Praty's Register, pp. 142, 143, where the Confirmation by that Bishop of Bro. John Costune's election as Prior of Boxgrave is dealt with. The English summary here is a sufficiently clear guide

Which certificate having been read before the Reverend father himself sitting judicially on the tribunal in the aforesaid Church of Aumberle, there appeared then and there the said elect and Mag. Edmund Warham and D<sup>ns</sup> John Messagere [below "Messenger"], proctors of the said Chapter of Chichester, literatorie et divisim constituti, the tenor of whose proctorship follows. [The terms as usual.] They were to report the election and ask for the Bp.'s confirmation thereof, etc., etc. The common seal of the Chapter attached. Dated in the Chapter-house, July 25, 1407.

After the reading of the above the said Mr. Edmund exhibited the formal election of Mag. John Hasele as Dean, with the subscription of Mag. Richard Swetappull, notary public, by Apostolical authority. The tenor of this election [fo. 169] follows, addressed to the Bishop. Since through the long vacancy of a Church grave losses in things spiritual and temporal are liable to happen, therefore the honourable and circumspect man Mag. John Maydenhyth, the last Dean, being dead and his body reverently committed to ecclesiastical burial, lest the Deanery of this Church should too long bewail its loss, we the Chapter agreed to assemble in the Chapter-house on June 19, 1407, to the proceedings, which were conducted throughout with all due formality and an almost nervous anxiety to omit nothing essential to the perfect validity of the election.]

there has been from ancient times, and still is, a certain glorious Metropolitica Church, called the Church of Canterbury, having under it a large and ample Province and many solemn Cathedral Churches, and so it has been and is true, and it is so said and reputed openly, publicly, commonly, and notoriously.

(2) Also he says that in the same Province there has been, and is of old, a certain solemn Cathedral Church, commonly called the Church of Chichester, having in itself some dignities, parsonages (personatus), offices, and canonries and prebends, and other offices and lower benefices and other badges (insignia) of a Cathedral Church.

(3) Also he says that in the said Church of Chichester of old there has been, and now is, a certain dignity with care of souls (curata) and elective, commonly called the Deanery of the said Church, and so it has been and is true and publicly said and commonly held openly, publicly, commonly, and notoriously.

(4) Also he says that from 10, 20, 30, 40, 50, 60 years and above and beyond, and from time immemorial, so often as this Deanery has been vacant the election of the future Dean has belonged to the Chapter of the same Church, and so belongs at present, as well by a statute of the same Church as also by custom hitherto observed, apostolical provision only excepted, and so it has been and is true, and so it is said and reputed openly, publicly, commonly, and notoriously.

[There are numerous notes in Latin scored down the margins of the above document, in the very illegible running hand attributed by Canon Swainson to Dean Ball. He heads it "Anno dni 1407, fuit hec electio." nominated bro. John Rykeman, their fellow-monk and brother of the said Priory, to the noble lord Lord Thomas de Ponynnges Lord St John, founder of the said Priory, and through him to the Ven. father in God, etc., Robert, etc., for canonical institution. These documents are then given seriatim. The first is to the Bp. from Lord St John, and sets forth that the brethren of the Priory of St Mary of Boxgrave have sent him a form of Apostolical letters and privilege granted to them during the schism which has now long prevailed in the Church of God and still prevails, and during the hostility between our kingdom and those of Normandy, in which the Monastery of Lessy, alias Exaquii, on which the said Monastery of Boxgrave depends, is situated, and the Abbot of which Monastery ought otherwise to provide the said Priory when vacant with another Prior, "we present to you by the tenor of these presents brother John Rykeman . . . . according to the form of the Apostolic letters aforesaid and of the privilege contained in them, humbly and devoutly supplicating that you will deign to admit the aforesaid brother John Rykeman to the said priory, and to institute him Prior, etc. Sealed. Given in our manor of Halfnaked [Halmaker], April 18, 1409."

This letter having been received and inspected by the Bp. on April 20 in his Manor of Cakham, he decreed that contradictors or opponents, if any, should appear in the Parish Church of West Wythryng on April 23rd. In due process of time the Dean of the Deanery of Boxgrave appeared and put in a certificate [fo. 171 v.] which quotes the Bp.'s instructions, in compliance with which he went to the Monastery personally, publicly intimating his business to the Sub-prior and Convent and to all others concerned, and found no contradictor or opponent appearing. "Wherefore generally and publicly in the said priory on Sunday last at the time when the larger number of people assembles to hear the divine service, namely, after the Gospel of the Parish-mass then and there celebrated, having explained the said mandate and its contents to the people in the vulgar tongue, I cited all and each, if any there were, who had anything to object against the nomination and presentation, or against the person nominated and presented to appear before you or your Commissaries on the day and in the place mentioned, etc., and so having obediently and reverently, as far as in me lies, executed your mandate, I have attached my official seal to these presents. Given at Boxgrave, April 22nd."

Then follows the tenor of the nomination by the Sub-prior and Convent. Brother John Chaworth* of good memory, the last Prior, paid the debt of nature on April 11th, 1409. He was buried on the 12th honourably, as was fitting. On the 18th day of the same month we, the Sub-prior and Convent, assembled capitularly in our Chapter-house, and being present there according to the form of the apostolic letters, etc. [as above], nominated to the Lord of Ponynge their founder, bro. John Rykeman, etc., of the age of thirty years and upward. Which nomination we, the Convent of the said Priory, caused to be intimated by our brethren John Smyth, sub-prior, and Simon Hye, our fellow-monks and brethren [fo. 172], to our founder. Through whom we supplicate your most reverend paternity to accept our brother John Rykeman and to admit him as Prior, etc. In testimony, etc., we have affixed our common seal. And also for greater safety we have caused these our acts to be brought publicly into form by Mag<sup>s</sup> Adam Symond and Richard Swetappull, notaries public underwritten [Anno Domini, Indiction, etc.], there being present the discreet men Thomas Preston, John Gator, and John Mops of Lincoln and Chester Dioceses, specially called and asked as witnesses to these presents. [Adam Symond, clerk, adds his certificate in the usual terms, and Richard Swetappull, Presbyter, gives a separate certificate.]

The tenor of the Apostolical letters granted, etc., Boniface Bishop, servant of the Servants of God, to his beloved sons the prior and convent of the Priory of the place of Boxgrave of the Order of S<sup>t</sup> Benedict in Chichester diocese, health and Apostolical benediction. The sincerity of the devotion which you bear to us and to the Roman Church requires that we should lend a favourable ear to your prayers, especially to those which may tend to your advantage and to the honour of your priory. [He states the facts that the Priory depends on the Monastery of Lessy alias Exaquii. Also that the Priory for long times past has observed the custom that all who are to be made

Ordinacio quedam concernens testamentum Magistri Johannis
Maydenhith, nuper decani Cicestrensis.

[A certain Ordinance concerning the will of Master John Maydenhith, late Dean of Chichester.]

[This extract from Dean Maydenhith's will sufficiently explains itself. The £40 which he bequeathed to the Dean and Chapter in perpetuity gave the Communar for the time being sufficient ready money for the various payments to which he was liable, while the rents when they came in allowed him to replace in the chest this £40, to be borrowed in turn by his successor when the new year began. It is to be hoped that the safeguards provided against any misappropriation of the money or failure to replace it were sufficient. The present writer has found no further allusion to this matter, but this does not prove that there is none among the Dean and Chapter's muniments. Maydenhith's will can be seen at Lambeth in Register Arundel, i., 240. Considerable extracts from it are given below in the Appendix.]

of the Church aforesaid, proved, etc., by the authority of the prerogative Court of the Abp. of Canterbury, we find among other things in this last will piously disposed and ordered the clause which follows: Item because the communa of the Church of Chichester is so slight and scanty that the resident Canons at the beginning of the year have to lay out of their own money £40 sterling or a little less to the end that daily charges and obits may be paid at the end of the quarter to the Canons residentiary, Vicars of the Choir, and other ministers of the Church. Otherwise unless they so laid out they would have to wait for the end of the year till the profits and rents of the Church have been collected and levied, and then the Vicars and other Ministers would go away from the Church poor, and so the Church itself would remain unserved. Wishing to relieve this indigence and to apply a remedy for this defect, I bequeath to the Dean who shall be after me in the said Church and to the Chapter of the same Church £40 sterling, to be laid up in a chest under a triple lock, of which the Dean for the time being or his locum tenens shall have one key to keep, and in their absence the president of the Chapter, a Canon to be chosen by the Chapter, [shall have] another,

[Commission to warn Ecclesiastics to make satisfaction concerning St. Peter's pence by Apostolical authority.]*

The Bp. to Mr. Geoffrey Salle, sequestrator general in the Arch-deaconry of Chichester. Quotes letters received from the Rev. Mag. Marcellus de Strozis, LL.D. and nuncio and collector of the Apostolic See in England. Certain ecclesiastics and others in the Diocese of Chichester whose names and surnames are unknown to us, have refused and still refuse to pay the pence of the Blessed Peter due to the Apostolic See, although often canonically requested, to the grave peril of their own souls and a pernicious example to many. We therefore enjoin and command you with fitting reverence to compel these men to make payment by any ecclesiastical censures. Given in London under our official seal, Oct. 28, 1410. The Bishop continues—But because the pence of St. Peter due to the Apostolic See, and to us in its name annually on the feast of St. Peter ad Vincula for the Deanery of Pageham in our diocese, and in the jurisdiction of the Deanery of our Church of Chichester have been for several years, and are withdrawn to the prejudice of the said See and ourselves, to our no slight grievance, in that we are compelled to make satisfaction to the collector each year for the same pence, we therefore commit to you by strong injunctions by virtue of obedience that by the authority of [fo. 174 v.] the said Apostolic See and our own, you warn and effectually induce the Dean and Sub-Dean whom we, by the tenor of these presents by the authority aforesaid, warn for the first, second, and third time, and peremptorily, that they make full payment for the pence withdrawn in our time within fifteen days from the time of your monition, under the penalty of greater excommunication which by these writings we give you authority to pronounce, reserving absolution in that respect to the Apostolic See or in its name to ourselves. Certify to us concerning the receipt of these premises and your action thereupon before the feast of St. Hillary next. Given at Aumberle, Dec. 4, year aforesaid.

have been for many years unpaid, and still remain so to the prejudice of the Roman Church and our own no slight loss and grievance. Collect, or cause to be collected, the arrears, and pay them to ourselves or to our Chichester official by the Feast of St. Hillary next without any further delay. Ecclesiastical censures against those who are blameworthy or remiss in this respect. Certify under authentic seal. Dated as last.

[Another mandate addressed to the Sub-dean of Chichester for the same.]*

The Bp. to our beloved son the Sub-dean, etc. You, the Sub-dean, should collect and pay to us the above in the Parishes within your jurisdiction. Some Rectors and Curates, although often warned and requested by you, have refused payment. We enjoin you, etc., to pronounce suspended from the celebration of Divine Offices, all and each of the Rectors and Curates reasonably suspected as culpable or remiss in this regard, first warned [fo. 175] canonically by you, and within fifteen days from this our, or rather the apostolic, warning failing to make satisfaction. All Churches of the said jurisdiction place under interdict until satisfaction has been duly made. Report to us in the Parish Church of Aumberle on Jan. 3rd by your letters patent, containing the names and surnames of those who are blameworthy in this regard. Dated Aumberle, Dec. 5, 1410.

[Certificate sent to the collector of the lord Pope for procurations due to the Apostolic See.]

To the Venerable Mag. Marcellus de Strozis, LL.D., nuncio and collector in England of the Apostolic See, Robert, etc. With obedience as well due as devout to the said See, we have lately received your reverend mandate as follows: To you, Reverend Father and Lord by the Apostolical authority which we discharge in this regard by the tenor of these presents we commit, and in virtue of holy obedience and under the penalty of an oath tendered, by which we are bound to the said See with that reverence which is fitting, we enjoin and command that you canonically proceed and execute or cause process and execution to be made duly with effect against the persons and bene-fices subscribed for the reasons recited below, by monition, citation, and sequestration of the fruits of these benefices, according to the force, form, and effect of the headings [Rubricellarum] and chapters contained below, in the place and by the authority of the said See. Moreover that you cause to be cited peremptorily all and each the possessors, occupiers, or farmers of such benefices or places personally if they can be found, otherwise in their benefices or domiciles, that they appear and that each of them appear before us at our lodging situated in the Parish of St. Mary super Montem, London, before the 12th of October next, under pain of greater Excommunication, which we intend to fulminate against them severally unless they fully satisfy the claims for money under the name of procurations due from them or shew reasonable causes to the contrary. A certificate as to the Bishop's action herein to be sent by letters patent. Given at London under our official seal July 23, 1410. The Bishop reports that he has executed this mandate and commanded the delinquents personally or by leaving citations at their benefices or domiciles, [fo. 175 v.] to appear as directed under the penalties described. Given at Aumberle October 5, 1410.*

* Although the particulars concerning the Pence of St. Peter given in this note belong to an earlier generation than Rede's (probably to the latter part of the 13th century), they are quoted as giving evidence of the varying liability of the different Parishes in Chichester, and also to shew that at the date of this document the Pope's collector claimed only £8 of the amount raised from the Diocese, and allowed the Bishop to retain the larger proportion of £12 10s. 0½d. If this precedent was still being followed in the early 15th century it explains the Bishop's complaint that failure to comply with the nuncio's demands implied a personal loss to himself, he being obliged to make good the Pope's share in each case where payment was withheld.

the said blessed Richard our predecessor has passed by the sloth of some into abuse, to the grave peril of many souls, in this ordinance it is publicly contained and in virtue of obedience strictly ordered and commanded that all the Parishioners of every Parish Church of the said Archdeaconry by themselves or by a faithful messenger, if perchance any of them should be lawfully hindered, on any day of the Whitsun week festival, according to the custom of other Cathedral Churches in the Province of Canterbury, should go devoutly and in procession with cross and banner to their kind Mother the Church of Chichester, from whom as daughter from mother the several Parish Churches are well known to have proceeded, and to receive oil and holy chrism, from whom also penitents by penance receive salutary remission from their sins . . . humbly lavishing their pious prayers and reverence to their Mother Church aforesaid. Which ordinance we wish to hold in our present expressions for the honour of the said St. Richard.

The aforesaid ordinance, for these and other pious and just reasons moving us, we have thought right should be renewed after deliberation had with the Dean and Chapter, and with their consent signified beforehand. Appointing that in future times it shall be observed inviolably and firmly by all the faithful in Christ and our subordinates

It is read thus in the Law of the Lord.* “Three times in the year shall every male of thine appear in the sight of the Lord thy God in the place which he shall choose, in the Solemnity of Unleavened bread, in the Solemnity of Weeks, and in the Solemnity of Tabernacles. He shall not appear before the Lord empty, but each one shall offer before the Lord according to what he has according to the blessing of the Lord his God, which He has given him.” Since therefore in the dawning of the Truth the shadow of the Solemnity of Tabernacles, which is called Cenophegia, has passed away, and in the Solemnity of Unleavened bread, that is of Easter, it is right that every faithful man should be present in his own Parish Church, that in the dispensation of the Eucharist the dispenser may diligently recognize the face of his sheep, the appearing at the Solemnity of Weeks, that is of Whitsuntide, since it pertains to good manners, is literally preserved, so that in that Solemnity each year in the place which the Lord shall choose, that is in the Cathedral Church, which is the Mother and Mistress of other Churches, every faithful man should appear either by himself or by a faithful messenger when by a reasonable cause he has been detained, offering devoutly according to the blessing of the Lord in the temporal things which He has given him, lest, if he appear

Since therefore this holy and praiseworthy observance remains unbroken in the other Churches of England and in ours, which we relate with grief, has been gradually drawn and grown into dissuetude, we command you all with strong injunctions in virtue of obedience that you warn and effectually induce and, if necessary, compel by ecclesiastical censure all your Parishioners, that in the aforesaid solemnity which lasts for seven days, according to the custom of other Churches, every one visit ours, that is the Church of Chichester, in accordance with what we have mentioned above. But to all who willingly do this if they are truly contrite for their sins and confessed, trusting in the mercy of the Holy Trinity in whose honour the same Church has been founded and consecrated, and in the merits of the Saints by whose precious relics it has been embellished, we mercifully relax forty days of penance enjoined to them. But all indulgences and relaxations granted by our predecessors, Bishops of Chichester, to our Cathedral Church aforesaid we wish to be perpetually valid. But others to be granted by other Bishops we ratify and confirmed. Given in the year of our Lord 1247.

[A second letter for the Visitation at Whitsuntide.]

[Richard, by the grace of God Bishop of Chichester, to the Archdeacons, Deans, and all Parsons, Vicars, and Chaplains ruling Parishes, health, grace, and benediction. Since according to the general custom of the English Church you are bound in token of obedience and reverence in Whitsun-week with your parishioners assembled in procession to visit [in Whitsun-week]* your mother Church of Chichester, or in her name that of Lewes or Hastings, on account of the excessive distance of the places, with oblations due according to a custom introduced from the law of God according to what in our other mandate issued on this subject is more fully contained, that the Church herself through the fraud and negligence of some may not be deprived of her own right through the evasion of the mandate aforesaid, we warn and exhort you all, in virtue of the obedience by which you are bound to us and the said Church, that the several Chaplains in their several Parishes, a description of the several houses and families having been made and the oblations having been collected as well of those present in the procession as of those absent who cannot come on the day appointed for their procession, under the testimony of their Deans

[An ordinance concerning the right of presentation to the Rectory of Rogate.]

To all sons of Mother Church to whom the present writing shall come, Ranulf, by divine mercy the humble minister of the Church of Chichester, health in the Lord. We wish it to come to the knowledge of you all that since after the death of Hubert Hosatus [Hosee], Rector of the Church of Rogate, a question was raised before us between Henry Hosatus, Knt., on the one part, and Robert the Abbot and the Convent of Durford on the other part, about the said Church of Rogate, the said Henry proposing a Clerk presented by himself as patron to the vacant Church, in which he said that he had the right of patronage, [and] that at his presentation the Clerk ought to be admitted and instituted, the said Abbot and Canons of Durford contending on the contrary that the oft-named Church had been granted to them by Henry Hosatus, father of the aforesaid Henry, and that his concession had been confirmed, so far as pertained to them, by the Bishops of Chichester of good memory, Seffrid, Simon, and Richard, and Honorius, Archbishop of Canterbury,* for which they exhibited authentic writings, and that on this account the presentee of the aforesaid knight neither could of right nor ought to be admitted. At length concerning the aforesaid Church and their right in it, they submitted themselves to our Ordinance, promising to pledge themselves faithfully that for the future they will faithfully and without fraud keep what we should appoint to be observed on these matters.

We therefore, the circumstances which belong to the business and the authentic memoranda, so far as they have been given to us thereon, having been carefully and diligently inspected, ordain in this manner, namely, that the oft-named Henry and his heirs for the time being shall present as Vicar a Chaplain who shall minister in his own person in the same Church, and that he shall have for his support the whole free land of the Church, all the obventions of the Altar, the small tithes, and all things pertaining to the Church except corn, of the tithes of which he shall receive one-tenth of the tithe (preter bladum decimarum de quo percipiet unam decimam decime), and he shall bear all the Episcopal burdens which attach to the Church. But the afore-mentioned Abbot and Convent of Durford shall receive the whole corn of the tithes except the tenth of the tithe, which the Vicar shall have, as is aforesaid, and shall pay twenty-five shillings a year to the monks of Seez, which they have been accustomed to receive * Bishop Ranulph of Warham held the See between 1217 and 1224. The Bishops who are mentioned in this Ordinacio were Seffrid IInd, 1180, Simon FitzRobert, 1204, and Richard Poore, 1215. The reference to Honorius, Archbishop of Canterbury, is clearly a mistake, for he was a disciple of Pope Gregory the Great, and died in 653, having been one of St. Augustine's companions in his mission to England. In his time Sussex had not yet been converted from Paganism, and there was no monastery at Dureford. Though this entry in the Register is written in a not too distinct running hand, there is no doubt about the reading of the name Honorius, or of his office, and there is no other Archbishop of Canterbury to whom it can apply. A probable explanation is that the person who drew up this process confused the Archbishop of Canterbury with the Pope, for Honorius III. became supreme Pontiff in 1216, just before Bishop Ranulph's own appointment to Chichester. With this solution we may be satisfied. The decision of Bishop Ranulph in the Rogate case created an unusual situation, a layman being allowed to nominate the Vicar of a Parish whose Rectorial rights were in the hands of a Monastery.

annually from the same Church in the name of benefice (nomine beneficii). But that this our ordinance may continue ratified and that the agreement of the parties, since it has proceeded from their consent and will, should not by some chance change of will be torn asunder,* we fortify it by the testimony of the present writing, and by the addition of our seal, and by our Episcopal authority, these being witnesses: Master Laurence, Godefridus, and Ernisius, Canons of Chichester, Henry Hosatus and Robert Fessler, Knights, Walter, Dean of Lynces, Master John, Parson of Clympyng, Master Giles, Parson, and Clement, Vicar of Hertyng, Nicolas, Vicar of Rogat, William of (?) Burton, Roger of Helcham, clerk, Roger of Warham, and others. Done at Aldyngborn, April 7th, in the 5th year of our Pontificate.

[fo. 176 v.] [Consent of the Prior and Convent of Shulbrede on pensions to be paid by them for the appropriation of the Church of Midlavent.]

To all sons of Mother Church to whom these present letters shall come, brother William Harethorn, Prior of the Priory of Shulbrede, O.S.A. of Chichester Dio. and the Convent, etc. Since the patronage of the Parish Church of Midlovente, Dio. Chichester, with the licence of the King and the authority of Robert, Bp. of Chichester, and the consent of the Dean and Chapter has been canonically united, annexed to and incorporated with our Priory, so that when the Rector of the same Church departs or dies, or in any other way retires from the Church, it should be lawful for us by ourselves, or by another or others, to take corporal possession of the Church itself, and of its rights and appurtenances aforesaid by our own authority, and lawfully to keep them perpetually, and to convert all fruits, rents, and revenues of the Church to our own and the said Priory's uses, and to the support of the burdens incumbent on us, and also to depute as in the Episcopal letters upon this union granted to us, and in the processes following thereon is more fully contained; and we considering that we have canonically apprehended and attained the corporal possession of the said Church of Midlovente, vacant through the free resignation or dimission of Dns. William Mayn, last rector of the same, resigning and giving up the Church. Considering moreover that the Reverend . . . lord Robert . . . Bishop of Chichester in his time, and his precessors and predecessors Bishops of Chichester in their times have received and had the rents and obventions of the said Church of Midlovente accruing in the time of its vacancy, and have disposed of the same according to their own free will, and have been notoriously accustomed from time immemorial so to receive, have, and dispose of them, which fruits however, since the Church now so united cannot fall vacant, the Bishop abovesaid will not be able to receive, nor will his successors be able to receive them, and there are other no small losses which by reason of this union affect* the Bishop of Chichester and his Church of Chichester, and the Dean and Chapter of the same Church, also the Archdeacon of Chichester, in whose Archdeaconry the said Church is situated, these losses they notoriously feel, and for the future would be likely to feel if no provision were made for their indemnity in this regard. Therefore that, on the pretence of fruits and obventions, and of these losses, and of any interest of theirs whatsoever, no controversy against us may be moved nor any matter of question raised, and also that from this union no losses may be brought upon them, but that they may be preserved entirely unharmed in this respect, we, the Prior and Convent above-mentioned . . . having had full deliberation in our Chapter . . . as to what things are requisite in this regard of right, and having weighed all that should be weighed, grant by these presents to the Reverend Father in Christ Lord Robert, Bishop of Chichester, and to his successors Bishops of Chichester an annual pension of 6s. 8d., and to the Dean and Chapter of the said Church of Chichester and their successors another pension of 2s., also to the Archdeacon of Chichester . . . another pension of 2s. of our certain knowledge on the day of St. Michael or within the fortnight next following, to be paid in the Church of Chichester every year perpetually for the future in recompense for the fruits, obventions, uses (utilitatum), and other rights which the said Bishop, Dean and Chapter and their successors, as we certainly know and confess, would receive and could receive at the several vacancies of the said Church of Midlovente if the union aforesaid had not been made. asures whatsoever . . . to the payment of the said pensions . . . at the term aforesaid every year for ever, under the same and other lawful penalties which it may seem good to them to order and define. To which ordinance, statute, and appointment we promise for ourselves and our successors to consent and effectually to obey, and to this we bind ourselves and our Priory firmly by these presents. We confess also and of certain knowledge allow by these presents that the constitutions of the said pensions and the payment of the same clearly makes for the advantage of ourselves and of the Priory aforesaid, renouncing purely, spontaneously, and absolutely for ourselves and our successors and of certain knowledge any remedy of appeal, supplication, and complaint for entire restitution and any other remedies of law and fact whatever competent or to be competent which might profit us and injure those to whom the pensions aforesaid are granted. In testimony . . . whereof we have thought good to attach to the presents our common seal. Given in our Chapter-house April 10th, 1402.

* This charter is not included in those copied into Bp. Sherborne's Register. The date must be 1262, as at the end the succession of Bp. Stephen de Burgstede to John de Climping is mentioned. A copy is given on the two sides of an additional leaf inserted at the extreme end of Bk. Y, where it is headed "Compositio capelle de Northia in parochia de Bexil Cicestr. Dioc." The variations between these two copies of the original are so slight that it has not been thought necessary to note them. The word "Susana" is written "Lusana," and "terra" omitted, the copyist probably thinking it a place name. A "free translation" is given in Mr. Turner's paper on "The Lost Towns of Northeye and Hydeneye" in S.A.C., xix., 23-26, to which the reader who desires to know more of the subject should turn.

John the Baptist, from the land of William 12d., of Simon 6d., of Peter 6d. So that the said Chaplain who shall be for the time may, without request from me or my heirs, be freely able to distrain the said tenants, and to demand and retain their pledges at his will, if in any of the aforesaid terms they have been slack in the * "Terra susana." This is a term of rare occurrence; indeed the only passage in which it seems to have been noticed is in an undated list of the possessions of St. Augustine's, Canterbury, following the "Chronica" of William Thorn in Twysden's Decem Scriptores. Thorn's date is 1397, but this list is probably earlier. Somner, who compiled a Glossary to the Decem Scriptores, says that "terra susana" means worn-out land, the condition of which has been exhausted by over-cultivation, from the French suranné, "which exceeds a year." Ducange, quoting passages in the list where the word occurs, and Somner's opinion, adds significantly: "Sed, ut verum fatear, vim vocis non assequor omnino." Kelham (Dictionary of the Norman or Old French Language) gives "Susanné, suranné (terre)," land worn out with too long ploughing. This corroborates Somner's sense, and proves that the term came to England from across the Channel, and therefore may be expected to occur only in Kent and Sussex. Have we an instance of it in Susan's Farm, a place name in Eastbourne? As to how the word acquires this meaning some conjectures will be offered in the Appendix, with reference to De Laurière's Glossaire du Droit François. Littré only gives the form Suranner, and not in this sense.

payment of the said annual rent, until they have made full satisfaction for this, and have entirely repaid the expenses which he has incurred in exacting the said rent. In addition to this I have given and granted to God and the Chapel the pasture of two cows annually to feed with my cows at Northeye with their 2-year-old issue (cum earum exitu biennali), and the pasture of ten sheep annually at Northeye with their 1-year-old issue (cum earum exitibus unius anni) with my sheep and pannage of six pigs annually with my pigs from the day of the Nativity of the Blessed Mary to the feast of St. Martin in winter wherever they are pasturing; and all these to the custody of my shepherd. I the said William and my heirs will warrant all these gifts as concessions to God and the said Chapel and its servants in pure and perpetual alms against all men and women. And we will find on the Feast of St. James annually for the light (ad luminare) of the said Chapel three pounds of wax, supporting the same Chapel for ever in books, vestments, coverings (cooperturis), and all other necessities which concern the said Chapel. And we will find for the server of the said Chapel a free and competent way to go and return to all the aforesaid lands for driving [his cattle] and carrying [his crops] as often as he shall find it necessary. But I will and concede that if I or my heirs and assigns fail by our negligence or perverseness within 40 days after the death of any Chaplain for the time being to present another to the Bishop of Chichester, it shall be thenceforth lawful for the Bishop freely and quietly without any contradiction to appoint a suitable person as Chaplain who is to have, hold, and possess, freely, quietly, fully, and peacefully all things aforesaid. But that these my gifts, concessions, and confirmations of my present charter may have the force of perpetuity for the future I have strengthened the present charter with the impression of my seal, these being witnesses: the Ven. father lord John the 2nd by Divine permission Bp. of Chichester, Master Walter de Boluerina (sic),* Dean of Chichester, Master Geoffrey de Ferringes, Precentor of Chichester, D<sup>ns</sup> William de Brakelesham, Chancellor of the same Church, Master William de Vemle, Treasurer of the same place, Master Geoffrey de Gates, Archdeacon of the same place, D<sup>ns</sup> Simon de Climpyng, Archd<sup>n</sup> of Lewes, D<sup>ns</sup> Valerando de Munceaus, Knight, D<sup>ns</sup> Ralph de Heringaut, Knight, D<sup>ns</sup> William de Sancto Leodegario, Knight, D<sup>ns</sup> Mathias de Hastyngs, Knight, D<sup>ns</sup> John Mowyne, Knt., D<sup>ns</sup> Richard de Ore, Knt., and many others. Ordinacio Vicarie de Cokefeld [see S.A.C., xl., 183].

[Ordinance of the Vicarage of Cokefeld.]*

Letters patent from Ricardus permissione divina Cicestrensis ecclesie minister humilis.† Since at some time (aliquando) the Prior and monks of Lewes of the order of Cluny had transferred to us and left to our ordinance the whole right of patronage which they had in the Church of Kukefeld and some others, and we had conferred and assigned the aforesaid Church of Cukefeld perpetually to the monks of Lewes for their own uses in regard of charity for the help of the infirm monks there, saving the Vicarage ordained by us in that Church and by us and our successors or in the vacancy of the see by the Dean and Chapter perpetually to be conferred, we have conferred the said Vicarage on our beloved Chaplain, Walter de Warnecamp, and have instituted him perpetual Vicar in the same Church. As long as he is perpetual Vicar he will receive all things contingent and belonging to the said Church of Kukefeld or which may accrue to it, there being reserved only to the monks all the tithes of sheaves, corn, and beans through the whole of the said Parish in all fields which are cultivated by the plough, pasture for twelve animals in the Lord's park being retained by the said monks, with barns and two houses for the monks to store their corn . . . . The Vicarage not being sufficient, especially since the Vicar is bound to personal residence and to bear the burden and heat of the day in the same, the monks are to pay annually six marks from their communa, i.e., three at Michaelmas and three at Easter. [In case of arrears payment is arranged for through the Bishop's action "sine strepitu judiciali et contradictione." The Vicar to bear all the due and customary burdens.]

The conclusion is nearly all illegible, but among the names of witnesses appear Willelmo de Selsei, Simone de Clympyng, Adamo de Seldesey, Roberto de Hastyngs . . . . Henrico de London . . . . cum aliis.

Note in margin, "Vid. Lib. C., fol. 80 b." This is among the charters copied by Bp. Sherborne's Registrar and is a complete and nearly accurate transcript, except that only some of the witnesses are named. This point is common to other charters transcribed in Lib. C.

APPENDIX, CONTAINING CORRIGENDA AND NOTES.

The text of this second portion of Rede's Register has taken up so much space that we must withhold some of the illustrative material which has been got together. We intended, for instance, to give the remainder of Dean Maydenhith's interesting and voluminous will, copied for this purpose from the Lambeth Register of Archbishop Arundel, i., 240, containing much personal matter, with extracts from the wills of Sir John Dalynghregge and other persons of note mentioned in the Register. Such may, perhaps, be reserved for a future volume of miscellaneous documents, which should certainly include some from the valuable Liber Y, often referred to in these pages.

It is hoped that the Index will be found exhaustive, as omissions of names in a work like this would greatly detract from its value. Persons who have made a study of medieval manuscripts know how often one is left in doubt between two ways of spelling a name. It is generally impossible to distinguish between the small "c" and "t"; one may write "gracia" or "gratia," "requisicio" or "requisitio," etc. The usual "e" here is simply an "o" with a stroke across it, and this stroke is sometimes omitted by the scribe's carelessness or haste; "i" and "j" are not distinguished; "u" stands for "v," and these letters with "m" and "n" are simply a succession of plain strokes. A well-known instance of such difficulties as arise in this way is the doubt between the words "numerari" and "munerari" in the Te Deum. The first seven strokes will spell either word equally well. In these lists one hesitates between "Chanry" and "Chaury," "Ganyn" and "Gavyn," "Tauk" and "Tank," "Denyas" and "Devyas," "Sneth" and "Sueth." Where we should write a "u" as "v," it has been commonly so written here. It was some way down the seventeenth century before the distinction was regularly observed. In a few cases we have inserted alternative forms, but generally one or other has been adopted and adhered to without comment. We have endeavoured in place-names to supply the modern form where this can be ascertained. In Parishes this is generally possible, but in the names of Manors or Farms the old designations have sometimes become obsolete, or at least they cannot now be traced. The reader may succeed with local knowledge in cases where we have failed.

Mr. Charles Dawson's recently-published work on "Hastings Castle" has proved very useful in the material he has compiled with regard to the Prebends and Prebendal Churches of the Collegiate Church of St. Mary within its walls.

We may also notice with approval Miss Frewen's History of Brick-wall and of the Parishes of Northiam and Brede (Allen and Sons, London, 1909). There is a carefully compiled and annotated list of the Northiam Rectors, pp. 29—35. An account of the Oxenbridge family, with an attempted pedigree, will be found on pp. 101—109.

Mr. J. E. Ray of Bexhill is collecting with much pains materials for a History of that Parish, and the present writer has a large bundle of the early Court-rolls of Hurstmonceaux, on which he hopes soon to offer some notes for our Archæological Collections.

We may take the opportunity here of thanking again, for further assistance, those to whom we acknowledged indebtedness in the Introductory Remarks to the first part of this Register. These names it is unnecessary to repeat. In the course of this volume our obligations to other helpers have been noted, but the Compiler wishes also to thank his two young friends, Messrs. J. F. Collins and C. Ford, who compiled with much care the first draft of the Indexes to Part I., now welded with those of the Second Part, his own handiwork.

p. xix, addition to footnote. Sir John Rede, Clerk, was benefited in the will of John of Hermesthorp (13 Hen. IV.), being one of his executors, perhaps the same John Rede whose exchange from Oving to a benefice in Bath and Wells Diocese in 1399 is noted supra, p. 246. See Bibliotheca Topograph. Britann., V. [174].

A Richard Rede was janitor or porter of Wolvesey Castle, and took a leading part in bearing the expenses of colouring the images in the reredos of Winchester College Chapel, which was erected in 1470-71. His obit was kept in the College on August 31. His widow Margery Rede contributed 33s. 4d. towards the building of Thurbern's chantry, 1474—80. Another Rede, who had been Schoolmaster at Winchester and also Master of St. Cross and Magdalen Hospitals, became Warden of Winchester College in 1501, and was chosen in 1520 Warden of New College, Oxford. Sir Richard Rede, who was admitted a scholar in 1524, practised as a Proctor in the Arches Court, and became Chancellor of Ireland. He left bequests to both New College and Winchester for the "betteringe of their Commons" at meal times. His will was proved in 1576. Kirby, Annals of Win. Coll., 52, 219, 228, 265.

p. 55, line 32. "Hermit of the Chapel of St. Ciriac." The Patron Saint of this Chapel was a little boy aged 3 years, who was martyred with his mother Julitta at Tarsus in Cilicia during the Diocletian persecution about A.D. 304. The particulars, according to what seem to be the authentic Acts, are given by Baring Gould, Lives of Saints (June), pp. 219—221. It is difficult to account for the veneration of an obscure Eastern Saint at Chichester. That the Chapel, or Church, was of early foundation appears from the fact that it was given to the Abbey of Troarn by Earl Roger of Montgomery soon after the Conquest. See the Confirmation Charter by Henry II. (Round Calendar of Documents in France). It is thought that St. Cyriac's Chapel was on or near the North Wall, though no trace of it whatever seems to have survived. There is, however, some evidence that it was in West Lane. See Boxgrave Cartulary (Cottonian MSS., Claudius A, vi., fol. 6).

p. 55, last line. "Priory of Hayling." This was a small cell of the Benedictine Abbey of Jumiéges in Normandy, built in the early part of Hen. III.'s reign, certainly before the year 1241. These small alien Priories served a double purpose. The services of the Church were duly performed, and there was some responsible person on the spot to collect the revenues of the manor. The Prior was appointed by and dependent on the Mother-house. Once, upon the occasion of an aid being granted to the King, the Prior of Hayling pleaded that the Priory was alien, not conventual, and that all Priors of the same had been from time immemorial appointed and removed at the pleasure of the Abbot of Saint Peter of Jumiéges, and were not perpetual and not inducted. No remains of the Priory are now to be seen, but the site has been identified near Tournier Bury. Large stones have been dug up here, some hammer-dressed, some bedded in mortar, and the place-names, Chappel Park, Monk's and Abbot's land, are still known. There are also old fish stews about half a mile from South Hayling Church. See C. J. Longcroft's Hundred of Bosmere, pp. 176-7. A list of the possessions of the Priory, temp. Edw. I., is given pp. 211—213. This with the other alien Priories was finally suppressed in the reign of Hen. V. Its property served for the part endowment by that monarch of Shene monastery.

p. 73, line 21. "Manuel, Emperor of Constantinople." Adam of Usk (Chronicon, ed. 1904, pp. 56, 219) says: "The Emperor of the Greeks, seeking to get aid against the Saracens, visited the King of England in London on the day of St. Thomas the Apostle (he had landed on December 11), being well received by him, and abiding with him, at very great cost, for two months, being also comforted at his departure with very great gifts." Adam goes on to describe the clothing and devotions of the Greek visitors, and thinks it a great disgrace that Rome had no power to bring succour to the Christian faith, but that this great Prince from the farther East should perforce be driven by unbelievers to visit the distant islands of the West. This Emperor was Manuel II. Palaeologus. He was the son of John VII., and reigned from 1391 till his death, 1425. Manuel lived in peace after his return from the West, Bajazet having been defeated and captured by Timur at Angora.

p. 90, line 15. "Commission to consecrate an Altar." All Saints, Chichester, with the Pallant adjoining, was part of the Archbishop of Canterbury's "peculiar" at the time of the Domesday survey, and at that time paid 64 pence. (See Victoria Hist. of Sussex, vol. i., pp. 373, 389.) The Church must have been entirely rebuilt in 1403, and, as the high Altar was consecrated and dedicated, this would imply that the former high Altar had been discarded. Perhaps the old Church may have been burnt.

p. 93, line 2, for "1465" read "1405."

p. 106. "Here follows the Visitation of the Clergy," etc. The Dean's rights of visitation in Cathedral and City were granted by Innocent IV. to Wm. de Lenne, Dean. The original bull was produced before the Court of Arches by John Wainflete, Dean, 1478, with a request that a fresh copy might be made. The contents there recited are transcribed in "Swayne's Bk.," pp. 171—190.

p. 121. "The new work of the Vicars." In a MS. book containing copies of Charters belonging to the Dean and Chapter of Chichester in the Library [1725, Z. e. 1] is a "Notarial Instrument setting forth the preliminary proceedings and consecration ceremony of the foundation of a Common Mansion for the Vicar's Choral." Dated Tuesday, 6 March, A.D. 1396-7 (p. 34).

The notary public who drafts this document is Willelmus de Dunham of Lincoln diocese, and it is drawn up with the full customary formalities of indiction, Pontificate, etc. The eighth year of Pope Boniface IX. Chapter House, Chichester. Present, John de Maiden-hith, Dean, William Petteworth, John Paxton, and Robert Poplowe, Canons Residentiary, on Tuesday, March 6, 1396, at the Capitular hour. The Vicars being present, the Dean set forth in his own name and that of his brethren aforesaid how, by their unanimous consent and mere will to the honour of the holy and undivided Trinity, of Blessed Mary, St. Richard, and All Saints, and for the common good of the Church of Chichester and the Vicars in the same, present and future, they were disposed and prepared to newly construct and build a certain common mansion within the close of the Church of Chichester, within which mansion the Vicars of the Church in future times would be able to lead in common a good life, the grace of the Holy Spirit inspiring them, and with the counsel and aid of the noble Lord Richard, Earl of Arundell, who contributed many goods to the construction of the said mansion and promised to confer more in the future, also relying on the alms of others. But that a work of such magnitude might be begun and might the better be brought to its desired end, and that it might be set on foot with the intervention of those most interested in it, the Dean asked of the Vicars assembled there before him whether it was their will in the Lord to consent to this work and to the construction of the mansion aforesaid, and whether when the mansion had been built, prepared, and fitted up for their common mansion they would be willing, as it was fitting, to live together in it. When these questions were put, the Vicars then present saying, as though with one voice, "Thanks be to God," expressly returned their common consent to it all.

And after this on the same day the first stone of the foundation of the same work was laid with the form underwritten by the Dean, and the foundation itself was begun. For first the Dean, Canons, and Vicars went in procession from the Cathedral Church to the Chapel of St. Faith, situated there in the Cemetery, and Mass of the Holy Spirit having been first solemnly celebrated there by Master John Paxton, they proceeded further to the place where the mansion was to be built, the Choir singing the antiphon de Sancta Trinitate, which finished, the aforesaid Dean placed the first stone in the first eastern angle of the foundation of the same work in the honour of the Holy Trinity, having been first sprinkled with blessed water. And then they passed processionally to the second angle of the same work, the Choir singing the antiphon de Sancta Maria. In like manner the aforesaid William de Petteworth, Canon, placed the second stone in the honour of Holy Mary, the Virgin Mother of God. Then, the Choir singing the antiphon de Sancto Ricardo, the aforesaid John Paxton, Canon, laid the third stone in the third angle of the work in like manner in honour of St. Richard. And afterwards in like manner the said Robert Poplowe, Canon, the first mover of this work, laid the fourth stone in the fourth angle of the work in honour of All Saints, the Choir singing solemnly the antiphon de Omnibus Sanctis. Which stones being thus laid, and the Psalm De profundis having been said, the aforesaid Dean, Canons, and Vicars and others then present went back to their homes, and returned from the beginning of so great a work praising God with joy as it appeared.

Concerning all which things the aforesaid Dean and Canons requested me, the Notary Public underwritten, to draw up a public instrument as a perpetual testimony of the premisses. . . . Present then and there the venerable men John Hebbe, Mayor of the City of Chichester, William Neel, Thomas Pacchyng, William Hurlebat, William Cumbe, John atte Mulle, and other citizens of the same City specially summoned as witnesses . . . .

“While the See of Winchester was vacant after Wykeham’s death, Archbishop Arundel held a Metropolitcal Visitation of both Colleges. The Abbot of Abingdon was the visitor at New College, where several Fellows were deprived. The visitor at Winchester was Dr. John Maydenheath. No particulars of this visitation exist in the archives of the College. But in the following year a monitory letter came from Archbishop Arundel, in which, after asking for a nomination for a scholarship, he enjoined the Warden and Fellows to provide, in obedience to the Statutes:—

- a. A register for the names of fellows and scholars.
- b. An inventory of goods and valuables (jocalia) in the Treasury.
- c. A register of charters and evidences of title.
- d. Covers of cloth to the seals of documents.
- e. Receptacles (cophini) for the title-deeds of each estate.
- f. An indenture or list, under seal by the Warden, of the moveables in his custody.
- g. An indenture by the Sacrists of ornaments in use in the Chapel.
- h. Indentures by the head servants of utensils in the pantry, kitchen, brewhouse, bakehouse, stable, garden, and barber’s shop.

He also enjoined the Society to repair the lead on the roof of the Chapel and Hall, to mend their windows, and re-hang their bells." Kirby, Annals of Win. Coll., pp. 155-6.

p. 140, line 11. "On January 14." The Convocation of the following year, unnoticed in our Register, appears in the Lambeth Reg. Arundel, ii., 15. It assembled on February 17, 1409-10, when the Bishop of Chichester was present with others on the south side of the High Altar. John Langdon, Monk of Christ Church, Canterbury, took the theme Stellæ dederunt lumen, etc.* At the Convocation held at St. Paul's December 1, 1411, our Bishop was present (Arundel, ii., 22). The Archbishop was then residing in his manse or hospice in London because his palace at "Lamhith" was occupied by the King "for the good of his royal person, and the singular quietness of the place." A solemn collation was made by the same Monk John Langdon, S.T.P., Almoner of Christ Church, Canterbury, on the theme Vocati estis in uno corpore.† Notice was taken in the Convocation, among other important matters, of the malpractices of two forgers, an apostate monk of Bury St. Edmund's and a layman named John Wolpitt alias Hugh Penbrace, who were charged with forging the leaden seal of the Pope, and of fabricating with accomplices fictitious seals of Archbishops and Bishops. They were delivered to the charge of the Bishop of Sarum, who was to investigate the matter, as this kind of forging was pervading the whole kingdom. Later they were sentenced to imprisonment, "in carceribus dictis le Counter et Newgate, quousque de eorum emendacione verisimili et manifesta constaret." Bishop Rede had left the Convocation before December 20.

p. 147, line 15. "One Sir John Hethe, Rector of . . . Folkington." On July 2, 1410, John Kyng, Presbyter, was instituted to the Rectory of Folkington on the presentation of Lord de la Warr, in the place of John Hethe deprived (p. 311).

p. 156, line 11. "Summons to a Convocation." Some particulars about this Convocation are given by Adam of Usk (Chronicon, pp. 122, 302), who had received preferments from Abp. Arundel, and had been promised more. He describes him as "lampas et sophia populi, lucerna ac delicie cleri, ecclesieque fidei Christiane columpna inpressibilis." He relates a remarkable dream which he had on the night of the Archbishop's death. This was sudden, and was probably caused by a quinsy or aneurism.

p. 184, 2nd line from bottom. "Hamo Offyngton." Not to be confused with his famous namesake Hamo de Offynton, who was elected Abbot of Battle in 1364, and died suddenly in 1382. He won immortal fame by his defence of Winchelsea against the French. See Victoria Hist. of Sussex, ii., 54. The later Hamo may probably have belonged to the same family, and was no doubt a young man, as in 1399 when Dean of the Chapel of the Blessed Virgin at Battle he obtained from Bishop Rede a year's leave for study. John Offington, Monk of Battle, was one of the six additional "compromissaries" at the election of Abbot Merssch (supra, p. 225).

p. 185, note to p. 96, line 6. Prebendary Burdon supplied the following correction to the misstatement that Pope Boniface VIII. built Palestrina on the ruins of the ancient Preneste. "What this Pope did in 1297 was to destroy it so effectually that he abolished for a time the name, and caused the inhabitants to dwell in huts. It was the chief seat of the Colonnas. It was rebuilt by the Colonnas under Clement V. There were two breaks in the history of the city, one under Sulla, the other under Boniface VIII. It was one of the Suburbicarian Sees from a very early period."

p. 195, line 21, for "Beaujeu" read "Belley." This correction I owe to Prebendary Bennett through one of Precentor Walcott's works. Belley is in Burgundy, between Lyons and Besançon.

p. 201, line 11, for "Sir" read "Saint."

p. 218. "Visitation of the Monastery of Battle." The relations of the Bishops of Chichester to the Monastery of Battle were matter of heated controversy for a very long time. In the reign of King Stephen Bishop Hilary tried to force the then Abbot to a full acknowledgment of his jurisdiction, to attendance at Diocesan Synods, and payment of episcopal dues, urging also that every newly-elected Abbot should attend the Bishop at Chichester for benediction. This was mainly an echo of controversies dating back to Bishop Stigand's days, and continued with Bishop Sefford I. A good account of the whole can be seen in Stephen's South Saxon See, pp. 45 and 52—57. The Abbots had usually got the best of these controversies, and this compromise, reached in the time of Bp. Ralph Neville, gave the Abbots the main points for which they had contended.

We furnish here the Latin text of Sefford's Confirmation of their liberties, and a summary of the principal contents of the Composition:—

Confirmatio libertatum ecclesie Sancti Martini de bello. Seffordus dei gracia Cicestrensis Episcopus Omnibus sancte Ecclesie fidelibus

Salutem et suam benedictionem. Notum sit omnibus vobis tam presentibus quam futuris quod Ego concedo et Episcopali auctoritate confirmo omnes dignitates et consuetudines et libertates ecclesie Sancti Martini de bello quas regia dignitate et auctoritate et predecessorum meorum Episcoporum confirmatione sibi commissas et confirmatas libere et quiete tenuit sicut Regis Willelmi fundatoris ipsius ecclesie et aliorum Regum carte testantur. Insuper eciam omnes parochias et decimas quas tenuit ipsa ecclesia vel capella ejusdem ecclesie tempore predecessorum meorum et vestrorum sicut ipsi predecessores mei concesserunt et scriptis suis confirmaverunt concedo et episcopali auctoritate presentibus literis sub interminacione anathematis confirmo. Teste Ricardo decano Rogero Archidiacono Radulfo Calvo Athardo monacho.

Liber E., fos. 199, 199 v, and 200. Compositio inter Episcopum Cicestr. et Abbatem et Conventum de Bello facta tempore domini Radulphi secundi Episcopi Cicestrensis Anno Domini mcccxxxv<sup>to</sup>.*

The composition is in the form of Letters patent from John de Farenton, Pope's Subdeacon and Chaplain, Archdeacon of Norwich, and "Magister Gentilis" and Canon of Chichester. Bishop Ralph II. in the name of his Church was exacting from the Venerable men Ralph, Abbot, and the Convent of Battle, the subjection and reverence which he claimed as his due. We held an amicable discussion with them. At length they compromised on us, and freely and peacefully committed themselves to our ordination. A penalty of 50 marks fixed against the party contravening this arrangement.

The Elect of Battle who was to receive benediction from the Bishop of Chichester for time being to be blessed in that Church, but if the Bishop be unwilling to bless him there let him do so in any other place which they agree upon except the Church of Battle Monastery. Let the Elect make his profession to the Bishop, but let it not be allowed to the Bishop through this profession to claim to himself any right or jurisdiction over the Monastery of Battle, or over the Abbot and Monks of the same. But if it should happen that at one and the same time the See of Chichester and the Monastery of Battle should be vacant, the assent of the Chapter of Chichester should be asked by what Bishop the Elect ought to be blessed, and if they grant or refuse after this request the elect may receive and have benediction from any Bishop, saving at future times the right of the Bishop of Chichester so far as the bestowal of benediction.

The second clause requires the Bishop to satisfy himself that the election has been properly conducted, and then without delay to bestow his benediction, leaving installation to the Prior of Battle.

* The full text of this important document, which is not in Dugdale, would be worth printing when occasion offers.

The third is as follows: From one period of three years to another let the Bishop be requested by the Abbot and Convent that through some discreet monk of the diocese of Chichester of the Order and habit of St. Benedict, and who is not suspected by them, according to their constitutions and approved customs, the Abbot and Convent associating with him another monk whom they wish of the same Diocese, he cause them to be visited in his place as well in the head as in the members, yet so that he may not diminish or infringe their ancient observances.

The following clauses deal with disciplinary matters resulting on such visitations, defining the Bishop's rights of action in such regard.

The seventh clause deals with occasions in which disciplinary correction may be needed between the triennial visitations.

The eighth enjoins on the Bishop that he is to go to the Monastery for a triennial visit with a body of 25 horsemen once to claim hospitality (*cum xxv equitura [sic] semel* hospitatum*). He is to correct nothing there, nor in any sense to visit, nor to exercise any episcopal right there or in the circumjacent leuca, unless that in answer to the prayers of the Abbot and Convent he may enter the Chapter-house to set forth the word of God.

The ninth. The Bishop who now is and his successors once only as long as they live on their first arrival there may be received in procession by them. Monks who seek ordination may attend those of the said Bishop or his substitute, or may go to another Bishop if they will without exhibiting or begging for license.

The tenth deals with vacancies in the Chapel of St. Mary, Battle, to which the Bishop is held to admit the person presented by the Convents. The Dean of the leuca is to be instituted by the Abbot with the Bishop's authority, and to have ordinary jurisdiction, criminal and matrimonial causes being reserved to the Bishop. Correction of the Dean belongs to the Abbot.

The eleventh. If when the Bishop denounces a delinquent the Dean neglects to correct him, then the Bishop may correct him reasonably and discreetly.

The twelfth. The Dean is bound to attend the Bishop's synod to hear his precepts and not to undergo any sentence.

All donations and gifts to the Monastery of William I., its founder, and other kings, of Bishop Stigand and other Bishops of Chichester, his successors, and other faithful persons, are to remain and stand fast for ever.

The parties submit themselves to the Archbishop of Canterbury for the time being in the case of contravention by either of this agreement.

The seals were attached of T.,* Dean of Chichester, and Reginald,† Archdeacon of Lewes. Done in the Cloister of Westminster A.D. 1235 in the Month of October. Present the aforesaid Dean of Chichester, Master Roger de Cantil[upe], Robert de Sardel, and many others.

In the Eynsham Cartulary (Oxford Historical Society), vol. ii., p. 176, edited by Rev. H. E. Salter, is a photographic reproduction of two seals of this Abbey, with the inscriptions "SIGILL' CONVENT' EGNESHAMIE AD CAUSAS" and "S'ABBATIS EGNESHAMIE AD CAUSAS." The Chichester Seal is reproduced in Vict. Hist. of Sussex, ii., 16.

For general information about official seals, methods of sealing, etc., the reader may be referred to a valuable Introduction to his Monastic Seals of the Thirteenth Century, by Gale Pedrick, F.R.H.S. (London, 1902). On p. 16 he says: "For documents of reduced importance a secondary seal termed the Ad causas was employed instead of the chief." Mr. Pedrick gives a specimen of such a seal (plate l., seal 100) belonging to Chich (or St. Osyth's) Priory, Essex.

pp. 415—422. [Processions at Whitsuntide.] Among the Carte Episcoporum contained in the "Black Book" of Lincoln (ed. Chr. Wordsworth, 1892, pp. 109, 307) is one from the great Saint Hugh, Bishop of Lincoln (1186—1200). He addresses all Archdeacons and Officials in his Diocese. It is matter of anxiety to him as it should be also to the Canons, who serve God in the Church of Lincoln, that while she has such a great multitude of sons they have treated her with contempt, in that "at least once a year according to the custom of our Church, which is held usual in other Episcopal Churches, they neglect to visit her in their own person or by sending suitable oblations according to their power, which indeed we know to have happened from the negligence of the Clergy rather than from the ignorance of the Laity. Wherefore we direct you all by the authority which we discharge that you enjoin on the Deans, Parsons, and Presbyters, through our Diocese, in virtue of obedience that in the several Parishes the several Chaplains induce the faithful entrusted to them . . . that some from every house should take pains (satagant) to come together each year on the Feast of Pentecost to the place accustomed and designed for processions, offering worthy oblations for the remission of their sins and in token of obedience and remembrance of their Mother Church of Lincoln. You must order also that the several Deans direct by our authority the Parsons [and] the Presbyters entrusted to them, to provide carefully, all of them, that the names of their parishioners, being separately noted, they may know how by their annotations of their names to answer faithfully to their own Dean to be appointed at Whitsuntide with our Clerks for this purpose, who, according to our mandate, as obedient sons have either come or sent, and who, transgressing our mandate, have neglected either to come or send." Bishop William, the successor of Hugh, granted a similar letter.

In the Diocese of Lincoln, on account of its very great extent, many different centres must have been fixed for these processions. St. Hugh offers the alternative of personal attendance or payment. Bishop Rede expected both. Nor did St. Hugh encourage obedience by the "attractive grant" of indulgence or relaxation. He speaks, however, of these Whitsuntide processions and oblations as a long-established custom of the Cathedral Churches of England. Bishop White Kennett (Parochial Antiquities, ii., 283, ed. 1818) alludes to the custom, and quotes as an instance the Abbey of St. Augustine, Canterbury, to which the Priests and Parishioners of the Parish Churches around came in procession in Whitsun week. "Cum oblationibus et ceteris devotionibus secundum consuetudinem observatam in ecclesiis matricibus dicti regni (W. Thorn, inter x Scriptores, p. 1985)." As there is no reference in Ducange to any such custom on the Continent we may conclude that it was peculiar to the Church of England.

p. 427, footnote on "Terra susana." We cannot pursue this subject to any length. If a note which the present writer has submitted to the Editor of Notes and Queries should appear in that periodical, light may be cast on what seems a sufficiently perplexing problem. He would only point out here that M. De Laurière includes in his Glossary the words SUSAN, SURANATION, which he explains thus: "Quand un procès commencé n'est poursuivy, ni la cause appelée par an et jour; ou qu'une Sentence, une commission, un mandement de juge, ou rescrit du Prince n'est mis à execution dedans l'an. Et convient obtenir lettres Royaux pour être relevé du Susan . . ." A Latin note below explains: "But in France a Rescript which one has gained from a Prince is obsolete (perit) in a year if it has not been used, like a Papal Rescript. See Chapter 23 de Rescriptis." There is more to the same purpose. Our present question is whether the sense of obsolescence or uselessness which the word implies in civil causes can be transferred to land, so that terra susana should mean useless land, good neither for arable nor pasture. The double form, sur, sus, presents no difficulty. They both represent the Latin super, sub becoming in Norman French suz. See Kelham.

The place-names are printed here as spelt in the original manuscript, with such variations as are found there, the commonly received modern form following within a bracket. Where no County is given Sussex should be generally understood. In the numerous cases of exchanges only the Diocese of a benefice outside our own is supplied by the Registrar. An attempt has been made here to identify the County of each. In cases where identification is doubtful the Diocese is retained.
